3-inch rain swamps area

By Andy Siering
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — A 3-inch rainfall put low-lying parts of the Quad City area under water for a time Monday, filling up drainage ditches, storm sewers, holding ponds, streets, and, in some instances, basements.

"Every ditch was topped up to the brim," said Walter "Shang" Greathouse, executive director of the Metro East Sanitary District. "I haven't seen those ditches that high in six or seven years."

"It was only a 3-inch rain," he said. "If it had been six inches, we'd have been buried."

Greathouse said the water in the ditches dropped three feet between 10 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. Monday. Because it did not rain hard again Monday night, ditches were largely back down to normal by Tuesday morning.

"All our lines are full," said Mac Warfield, superintendent of the Granite City Street Department, which is responsible for sewers. He said the water started receding at about 11:15 a.m. Monday.

Even Mayor Von Dee Cruse had water in his basement. "I've spent all day on this," he said Monday afternoon. "I just got finished vacuuming."

A spokesman for Illinois Power Co. said the storm caused no problems for the utility.

Cable television was interrupted during Sunday night's thunderstorm, viewers said.

Part of 20th Street alongside Granite City Steel was under at least 12 inches of water at noon Monday. Far of Pontoon Road were flooded and closed for a time. Also inundated was a yard at Kinder Lane and East Chain of Rocks Road. The lawn of City Temple Church on Maryville Road was flooded, as were big areas of Wilson Park.

Many other streets too numerous to mention, suffered severe flooding problems, and police and street department (See RAINFALL, Page 12A)

A SMALL LAKE surrounds the house at 2719 Nameoki Drive, cutting its residents off from the street. The two children in a three-foot plastic boat off the porch and watched it float in the yard. This north Granite photo, taken during pouring rain, was one of hundreds of similar scenes throughout the Quad City area Monday caused by the 3-inch rain. Cars stalled, basements flooded and headaches resulted.

Schools plan 'Empowering Day'

By Nicole Vaughn
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — With the beginning of DARE (Drug Abuse Resistance Education) at the elementary school level and such programs as SADD (Students Against Drunk Driving), Empathy and Snowball at the high school level, only the junior high schools lack anti-drug programs.

But Jack Haug, a drug counselor at Granite City High School, hopes that will change. "We're not sure what shape it's going to take but we want to get something started," he said.

A "Kid's Empowering Day" will be held Saturday, April 1, for 80 pre-selected junior high students.

A training group from National Training Associates in Sebastopol, Calif., will be on hand to work with the students to help them learn about themselves and how to relate to others. The trainers travel all over the country for such programs, Haug said.

The 80 students will be divided into 10 groups, each led by a junior high teacher and a senior from the high school Empathy group.

"The idea is for the group to develop a closeness and learn to function as a team," Haug said.

Empathy is a peer-helper group. Youngsters are given training in listening, problem solving, drug education and when to refer fellow students elsewhere, Haug said.

"There are certain problems that the students shouldn't deal with on their own," Haug said.

Ideally, an empathy member would work with the younger students to establish similar peer groups at Grigsby and Coolidge junior highs, Haug said.

Haug said drug abuse is a common problem at the junior high level.

"Some students I've worked with have told me their problems began in junior high or even in sixth grade," Haug said.

The program will be held at the Granite City Town Hall and run from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Meals will be provided and served by the Crime Prevention Committee of the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce.

The NTA trainers will be paid from District 9's drug-free schools grant, Haug said.

"It's important that the kids see that things can be done (about drugs)," Haug said.

"We hope that if we get the kids enthused, we can get the teachers enthused and then we can work from there."

Reviews and previews

High school may close campus

A committee studying the prospect of closing the Granite City High School campus during lunch hours is expected to make a recommendation on March 28. According to a report compiled by board member and Granite City Police Lt. Roy Koberna, between Sept. 1 and Feb. 28 there were 117 traffic accidents in the vicinity of the high school, with 21.5 percent happening during school lunch hours.

Pontoon creates free library

The first free library in Pontoon Beach was authorized last week by village trustees. The project will be financed through donations of books and funds and is being created under state statutes governing village libraries. A date for opening a library and its location have not been set.

'911 Awareness Week' to begin

The Nameoki Town Board has approved a proclamation declaring March 26 through April 1 "911 Awareness Week." The 911 proposal, which will be on the April 4 ballot, seeks a 65-cent surcharge on monthly phone bills to generate funds for the equipment and cost of setting up an emergency call service.

50 years ago

Thursday, March 23, 1939.

The Business and Professional Women's club held its monthly dinner meeting at Community High School. President Mary Mortenson welcomed the 65 members and guests, who were served dinner by the home economics class under the supervision of Mabel Gibson.

Mary Alyce Beardslee has been appointed area director of Madison County Catholic Charities. Her new duties include the direction and coordination of services among the Granite City, Alton and Collinsville offices. Beardslee began her career as a social worker with the Quad Cities Catholic Charities of Granite City in 1950 when the office first opened. Catholic Charities agencies provide family and child welfare services.

County's task force targets 911

911 questions, answers listed

Q: What is 911?
A: It is the number set aside by telephone companies throughout the United States which will automatically connect a person dialing 911 with an established public safety answering point (police, fire, sheriff, ambulance).

Q: Where will it work?
A: Everywhere in Madison County. 911 is toll-free from all pay phones. Should an emergency happen in a public place. Dialing 911 will quickly and efficiently connect you with the help you need.

(See 911, Page 12A)

EDWARDSVILLE — The Madison County Task Force has launched a public awareness campaign to promote public safety and the use of 911 in creating a 911 emergency call system.

Legislative Committee Chairman Al J. Dunstan, D-Troy, said the task force has endorsed the creation of an enhanced 911 emergency telephone system for Madison County.

If the referendum passes by a simple majority, Madison County will implement the three-digit emergency system countywide.

Enhanced 911 is a system which serves many cities throughout the nation. In many communities, when police, fire or emergency medical help is needed to protect lives or property, 911 is the number to call.

Currently, Madison County residents outside of Edwardsville and Highland do not have 911 service at all, and citizens of those two communities do not have enhanced 911 service, which provides dispatchers with potentially life-saving information about the caller.

The majority of county residents must choose from more than 65 seven-digit telephone numbers in an emergency. Looking up the proper phone number can cost precious time when seconds are of the essence, Dunstan said.

If the referendum passes, residents will pay a 65-cent surcharge on their telephone bills per month per telephone line. After the initial equipment is paid for, the surcharge will be reduced to cover only the maintenance of the system.

It will take 24 to 36 months for the 911 phone system to become operational after referendum passage.

The 911 system will be managed by an Emergency Telephone System Board appointed by the Madison County Board.

Board members will be representatives of emergency services throughout the county. The system will cover all parts of the county, including unincorporated areas.

For more information about the enhanced 911 emergency telephone system, persons may contact local police or fire officials, their county board member or the County Board office at 692-6200, extension 4341.

Lawyer wins huge malpractice judgment

By Dennis Grubaugh
Managing editor

GRANITE CITY — A local lawyer helped win a $2,330,000 judgment for a client in a malpractice case that has national implications.

Granite City attorney William Mateyka won the case last week for Eva Ferguson of Roxana against Dr. T. Bruce Vest and Vest Medical Consultants Ltd., operators of the Doctors Clinic in Alton, and Dr. Michele Mucci of Alton.

Vest was accused of giving Ferguson an unnecessary dose of radiation that left her with a series of urinary complications. Ferguson had received a full curative dose of radiation in past treatment of vaginal cancer, a procedure that would have precluded her being given subsequent radiation in the same area of the body, said Mateyka.

Mucci was named a defendant for having referred the woman to Vest for treatment.

Vest did not return a phone call Monday, but Mateyka said both doctors expect to appeal.

Vest was accused of giving the 63-year-old Ferguson a 2,450 "Rads" of radiation without first giving her the proper medical workup. She received external beam radiation, the first being diagnosed as having cancer, later medical evidence determined the woman was cancer-free, said Mateyka.

The judgment is one of the largest ever for this kind of case, he said. "To us it was a very big case," Mateyka said.

The trial began in the courtroom of Circuit Judge Nicholas Byron on Feb. 23 and judgment was returned by the jury last Wednesday night.

Ferguson first received treatment by Vest on Sept. 19, 1986, and received subsequent doses of radiation over a one-month period. Later, she suspected something was wrong in the procedure and consulted other doctors, it was related. She went to see attorney Merle Bassett in February and he later called Mateyka to handle the bulk of the case.

Radiation treatment is cumulative, meaning that dosage would combine with subsequent dosage, Mateyka said. Ferguson had been successfully treated for cancer of the vagina several years ago.

She had numerous side effects following the Vest treatment, including diarrhea and flu-like symptoms, testimony indicated. Upon seeking further medical advice, she eventually learned of the over-radiation from an East Alton physician, Dr. Joyce Albi.

Testimony revealed that Vest had done a Pap smear on Ferguson, but began radiation treatment prior to getting the results on the smear. He continued treatment even after results of the smear showed negative for cancer, records indicate.

"You never, never treat someone with radiation therapy without first arriving at diagnosis," Mateyka said.

As a result of treatment, Ferguson's vagina became gangrenous and she was left with a rectal-vaginal fistula. A colostomy was performed to correct the fistula; then a reverse colostomy was necessary "to save her life," said Mateyka. Combined surgery left the woman without a vagina, he said.

Also affected were her bladder and urethra, leaving her with "urinary urgency all the time," her lawyer said. The woman has a normal life expectancy, he said.

The jury awarded Ferguson $100,000 more than was sought, he said. Had a recent law not banned punitive damages, the award could have been much higher, Mateyka added.

Although Mucci was a defendant in the case, Ferguson's lawyer

Time for a change in city leadership

To the editor:

Tonight I received my Press-Record/Journal. I always enjoy reading it. Tonight I did until I came to page 4A, where our mayor has his little progress report on what he has done in four years, and how he has earned the right to be elected for another four years.

The report says, let his record speak for itself.

Well, I say, take a drive downtown and look at our empty buildings. It looks more like East St. Louis every day. When we do get a new business, it lasts a couple of months and then closes.

Take a look at the for-sale signs in the yards. People are wanting out of Granite City instead of moving in.

Take a look at the unemployment office, at the young people there, maybe getting jobs. But who can support a family on $3 or $4-an-hour jobs? That's the jobs they get.

Take a look at the senior citizens who are on fixed incomes, that can't pay their utility bills, who go into grocery stores, pick up things to buy and then put them back because they can't afford them. They deserve better.

I think it is time for a change, not a man who makes false promises to the people, but a man who is willing to work for all the people. A man who, with the people working with him, will change Granite City.

He will make it a town to be proud of. He will make changes the people want and need. So, for all the people of Granite City, young and old, let's get out and vote for Mac Welford and get Granite City moving forward.

BPW gives scholarships

To the editor:

A recent survey of our local organization's scholarship program was made for the Illinois Federation. Two of the questions on the survey were 1) How many persons have received scholarships, and 2) What is the total amount of funds given?

In 1956, our first scholarship, named the Pearl Ryckman Scholarship after one of our presidents, was given to a graduating senior girl from our local high school. From 1956 to 1970, the awards were $350. In 1971, they were increased to $500 and in 1982, they were increased to $700. We have always given full scholarships except for the last several years. During this period, we have given 33 scholarships which total $13,700.

The Verna Lengyel Scholarship, named for a past president, was established in 1972. This award is given to a local BPW member who wishes to advance her education in the field of her choice. Each award given is for $200 and is to be applied to tuition and/or books. The funds are sent directly to the school where the applicant is enrolled. This year we are pleased to give a $300 scholarship.

Seventeen of our BPW Scholarship was established in 1978 for non-BPW members. The scholarship was available to any working woman residing in the area served by the Illinois Federation of BPW Clubs, with priority given those residing here.

The applicant had to be officially enrolled in school (funds were sent directly to the school). The awards were given to a person whose studies involved the area of study designated by the Scholarship Fund Trustees. These areas of study included health, finance, sales, etc.

The awards were for $200 and were to be used toward tuition and/or books. Eight women have received a scholarship from our local organization, a total $1,800.

We are so happy that we have been able to give 38 scholarships during the period 1956-1989. The total amount has been $18,500. This effort is very rewarding and is truly "Women Helping Women", which is one of the main objectives of the Business and Professional Women's Clubs.

Foundation chairman

Statehood urged for Puerto Rico

To the editor:

In his first message to Congress, President George Bush had one surprise: He voiced his personal support to make Puerto Rico the nation's 51st state and called on Congress "to take the necessary steps to let the people decide in a referendum."

I agree completely.

An effort is under way in Puerto Rico and Congress to bring such a referendum to a vote.

Puerto Ricans are Americans. But they are Americans who do not have the rights of other Americans, primarily because they have no one representing them in the United States Senate, and only one, non-voting member in the House of Representatives.

The result is that in too many programs, it becomes easy for Congress just to give second-class treatment to Puerto Ricans.

The state with the lowest average income is Mississippi, at $3,292. But in Puerto Rico it is $3,157, in large part because Puerto Rico is not included in many educational and other programs that the rest of us have.

Puerto Ricans have been American citizens for 72 years. They had more people serving in Vietnam and South Korea, as a percentage of population, than all but three states. And they had higher casualties than all but three states.

But when it comes to getting the benefits of being Americans, they too often get left out. George Munoz, Chicago attorney and civic leader, recently wrote in the Chicago Sun-Times: "President Bush is right. Keeping Puerto Rico in limbo — neither a true state nor an independent country — won't be acceptable forever."

The present status, called commonwealth status, eventually will go. No people are going to accept second-class citizenship indefinitely. They will either become independent or become full citizens, with Puerto Rico as the 51st state.

The decision is up to the people of Puerto Rico. Unless and until a majority of citizens there vote for statehood, Congress will not and should not approve statehood.

But until that times comes, economic problems will continue to plague Puerto Rico.

The minimum wage bill before the Senate last year would have raised the minimum wage for the U.S. mainland but left Puerto Rico at the current level. I made an attempt to have Puerto Rico treated equally, but my amendment lost.

On this year's minimum wage bill, I hope to work out a compromise that would gradually give Puerto Ricans more equitable treatment. But if Puerto Rico were a state with two senators, no one would dare treat Puerto Rico that way.

Some American companies doing business in Puerto Rico gain tax advantages because Puerto Rico is not a state.

But the uncertainty of the future status of Puerto Rico discourages other businesses from locating on the island.

Puerto Ricans ought to be able to vote for President, ought to have members in the House and Senate. Or we should give them independence, if they want that.

Colonialism is a relic of the past.

And the sooner we recognize it, both the 50 states and Puerto Rico will be better off.

U.S. SEN. PAUL SIMON

A model humane ordinance urged

To the editor:

I would like to thank Casmer Skubish for his continuing interest in the welfare of Granite City pets and the plight of the homeless dogs and cats of our area.

Mr. Skubish has a proven track record as an animal advocate and indeed played a critical role in helping revise Granite City's pit bull ordinance to a generic law that protects the public against all vicious dogs regardless of breed.

Mr. Skubish is interested in revamping Granite City's antiquated animal control ordinance to include new humane provisions and has consulted the Madison County Humane Society for suggestions.

Casmer Skubish envisions enacting a model humane ordinance that will make Granite City a leader in animal welfare in Madison County. Mr. Skubish's continuing interest and care for the people and pets of Granite City is commendable.

I urge the other Granite City aldermen and the public to support him in this endeavor.

'Old ways' must change

To the editor:

(Following is a letter to the people of the Granite City area.)

If this area is to experience real industrial growth, then old systems that have been entrenched in the minds of our older residents are surely going to undergo major changes.

What we have found in this area is a one-way negative mentality of the people. Narrow-mindedness, to be frank with you. A city of people with such negative ways of thinking cannot attract industries.

Effective change must originate within the minds of all our citizens from the cradle to the grave. We must sit down together and reason together about the old mind-set that has caused industries to evade this area. Let us all work together to build a better world for posterity.

One of the major problems in this area is the failure of our people to understand that management and labor must work together as a team. After all, the managers are your brothers and sisters. To be successful, both management and labor must unite for the betterment of the whole area. This has not been the prevailing social policy in this area over the last 20 to 30 years. Seek the truth.

Another major problem in this area has been racial prejudice. This must quickly be eradicated. This is a terrible mental disease. Industries do not like to expand into areas that foster racial hatred. We must become a city of brotherly love.

Another major problem in this area has been the deliberate dumbing-down of our precious children in the public education systems under the reign of secular humanists and the educational ideas of one John Dewey, public educator. We must work together to eradicate this terrible educational system and get back to the basics — reading, writing and arithmetic.

Parents must become real parents and take an active role in the lives of their own children and their neighbor's children. We must promote the general welfare of all our citizens.

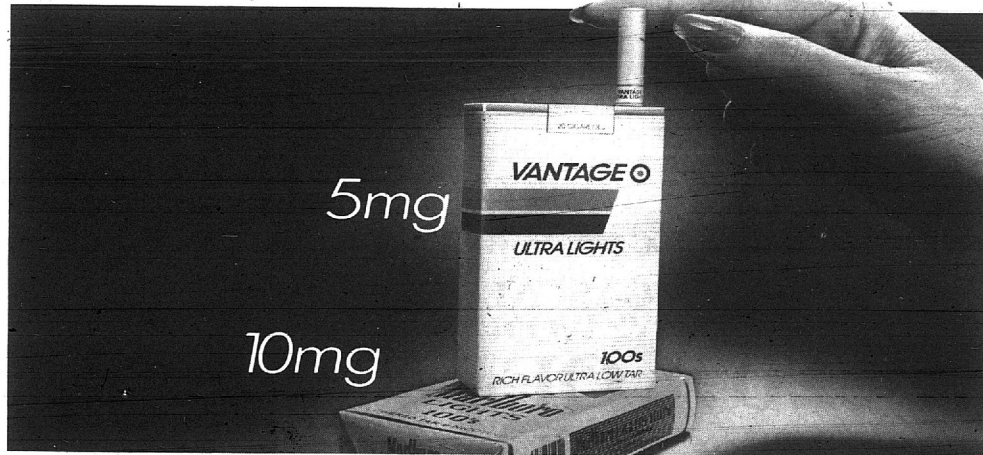

Dictatorship type of government has ranked right up there on the list as a major contribution to the decay in this area. What we need is a more harmonious system whereby the entire citizenry has an input into government. This certainly has not been the case in the last few decades. The city of Madison still shines out in this case. Read your local paper.

Nuclear wastes and nuclear waste facilities are among the most dangerous problems to any civilized people. We must search for ways to stop this plague.

Landfills are another local problem. Our local landfills are filling up very rapidly. We must look for ways to reduce our throwaway society.

College revises smoking policy

Smoking at the three Belleville Area College campuses is now restricted to specific areas, effective March 1, according to a new districtwide policy approved Feb. 15 by the Board of Trustees.

"The faculty and student senates have worked diligently in recommending this policy," said President Joseph J. Cipri.

"We're forming a committee of students, faculty, staff and administrators to monitor implementation of the policy."

Smoking is banned from classrooms at all three campuses, Belleville, Granite City and Red Bud. Private offices may also be designated as no-smoking areas by the occupant.

Designated smoking areas will be posted.

Costello backs college savings plan

WASHINGTON — Legislation that would make it easier for middle-income families to save for the costs of a college education has been cosponsored by U.S. Rep. Jerry Costello, D-Belleville.

"The right to a good, affordable education is one that should be given to every family in America," Costello said. "This bill would allow families to put up to $1,500 a year in a special savings account to help save for that goal."

Smoking will be permitted in some hallways at the Belleville and Granite City campuses. One room at the Red Bud Campus has been reserved for smoking.

In other action, the trustees:

•Awarded tenure to four faculty members effective at the beginning of the 1989-90 academic year. They are: Sylvia Berutti, radiologic technology; Rose Hall, medical assistant program; Carol Poon, mathematics; and James Saia, aviation maintenance.

GARY T. BAZZELL of Granite City, a senior at Granite City High School, participated in the Illinois Drafting Educators Association regional contest at Belleville Area College. He participated in the introductory drafting area.

Draftsmen capture honors

Sixty-nine students from 12 area high schools recently participated in the Illinois Drafting Educators Association contest held at the Belleville Campus of Belleville Area College.

The competition at BAC is one of 18 regional contests throughout Illinois.

Students demonstrated skills in four different areas, computer aided drafting (CAD) and mechanical, architectural and introductory drafting.

The schools that participated were Belleville Township East and West, Cahokia, Collinsville, Collinsville Vocational Center, Columbia, Freeburg, Granite City, Highland, O'Fallon, Red Bud and Waterloo.

"In past years, students from the BAC regional competition have done well when they advanced to competition at the state level," said John Jacobs, coordinator of the drafting technology program at BAC and of the competition. "This speaks very well for the quality of the drafting programs at the local high schools."

Architects and engineers from area firms and instructors from BAC's drafting department judged the work of the students. Winners received drafting supplies and are eligible for state competition held April 1 at the University of Illinois at Champaign.

Award winners from Granite City High School were: Shane McKel, third in introductory; Chris Moerlien, second in mechanical; and Walter Zabawa, third in mechanical.

Troop takes tour of Hardee's

Brownie Troop 27 of Mitchell School went on a guided tour of the Granite City Hardee's Restaurant.

The girls learned how orders are taken from the drive-up window and how to make ice cream cones and hamburgers. They snacked on cookies and sodas provided by the restaurant.

Attending were: Amy Niedhardt, Kim Ebrecht,

Shena Scrum, Carla Supthin, Lindsey Crook, Amanda Isbrecht, Sunset Bristow, Natalia Borowski, Jamie Alexander, Sara Baxter, Nicole Benson, Crystal McGlawn and Emily Worthen.

Parents attending were Sherri Supthin, Sherri Bristow, Franca Borowski and Barb Isbrecht. Also attending were Keith McGlawn and Darren Isbrecht.

Travel agent training slated

Travel Express Institute of Training is accepting registration for its summer session which begins May 16. The 16-week course will be limited to eight students.

The curriculum is designed to educate students in all phases of the travel agent profession.

Tuition is $1,250, with installment plans available. All textbooks and resource materials are included. Classes will be held on Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 6 to 9:30, said Jill Wisely at Travel Express, 234-1046 or 1-800-642-3753.

Makes dean's list

More than 900 students at Southeast Missouri State University, Cape Girardeau, were recently named to the dean's list for the fall semester.

They completed at least 12 credit hours during the semester with a grade point average of at least 3.5 on a 4.0 scale, having no grade below a "C."

One Granite City resident was named to the list: Sandra K. Barnard, 3223 Maryville Road.

Type-a-thon aids leukemia

The Gateway Chapter of the Leukemia Society of America, in conjunction with eastern Missouri, southern Illinois and Arkansas, including Venice High School, sponsored its annual Type-A-Thon.

On March 17, students took a timed typing test and solicited pledges for each word typed. Money raised will go to the Leukemia Society, a non-profit health agency dedicated to research, patient aid and education.

Leukemia is a disease of the blood-forming tissues which kills more children than any other disease, and yet more adults than children are stricken each year.

The Type-A-Thon provides an opportunity for students to sharpen their typing skills while giving others a chance to live longer lives.

Mary S. Harper is the business club sponsor at Venice High School.

Volunteers receive recognition

Volunteer members of the program councils of the University of Illinois Extension Service in Madison County were honored recently.

Council members carry out the responsibilities of studying the county and determining the priority issues toward which the Extension Service should direct its attention. Members assist the staff in keeping the county programs relevant to the needs of the people in the county.

Hilda James, Venice, received special recognition for completing four years of service. Members completing two years of service from Granite City are Arla Ault and Herb Bischoff. The University of Illinois Extension Service is an out-of-school educational organization for both adults and youths.

It seeks to assist people in learning how to achieve a healthier, more productive, and more satisfying life and to provide continuous service in the development of a stronger community.

New hiring guidelines at BAC

By Rick Arnold
Staff affiliate

BELLEVILLE — Responding to questions and sometimes criticisms from Belleville Area College board members concerning hiring policies at the college, BAC administrators have devised a new set of guidelines for hiring full-time faculty and staff members.

The board members were told of the guidelines at their meeting March 15. A vote wasn't required, since they are guidelines and not policies, said BAC President Joe Cipri.

Cipri said the procedures became effective immediately. The new guidelines cover all four areas of the hiring process: recruitment, screening, selection and approval. Under the procedures, a job vacancy would be filled within 45 to 60 days.

Larry Friederich, the college's personnel director, said the guidelines are a response, in part, to questions and concerns raised in the past by BAC board members about how college employees were hired.

"I think some board members questioned whether different departments hired people the same way," Friederich said.

"We said the guidelines' main purpose will be to ensure consistency among the procedures used by all department heads as they complete the hiring process."

Friederich said the guidelines are almost exactly the same, in terms of content, as the hiring procedures previously followed.

"We just wanted to make sure people at all three campuses were following the same procedures," Friederich said.

BAC board member Ted Farmer, who has criticized hiring practices in the past, said he is pleased with the new guidelines.

"Yes, I'm happy with the hiring procedures," Farmer said. "In the past, they were very inconsistent and very subjective."

Cipri, however, played down the idea that the new guidelines were created to correct past hiring inconsistencies.

"It's not a reaction to a problem, but a response to a need," Cipri said.

He said the guidelines were created to comply with equal employment opportunity legislation, collective bargaining agreements and existing college policies and procedures.

Cipri said the guidelines will guarantee that BAC hires only the best faculty and staff members.

"As president of this college, it's incumbent on me that I make sure that we maintain the highest standards of quality," Cipri said.

SIUE to help schools meet standards

EDWARDSVILLE — Southern Illinois University Chancellor Lawrence Pettit said March 9 the university plans to help high schools prepare students for college admission standards that will be required in 1993.

Meanwhile, Sen. Robert Justus, R-Des Plaines, announced plans to introduce a bill in the Legislature that would revise public high school graduation requirements.

Kustra's bill would make high school graduation requirements identical to standards the Illinois Board of Higher Education will require for admission to 12 state-supported universities in 1993.

The BHE will require high school students to have four years of English, three years each of social studies, math and science and two years of foreign language, art or music before students will be admitted to a state-supported university.

Pettit said the high schools alone should not have to bear the responsibility to prepare students for the new admission requirements.

"We are going to take that extra step to work with secondary schools to bring those standards into their curriculum," Pettit said.

AARP. weathers big snow storm

The big snow storm kept many members from attending the March 8 membership meeting of Granite City Chapter 1340 American Association of Retired Persons.

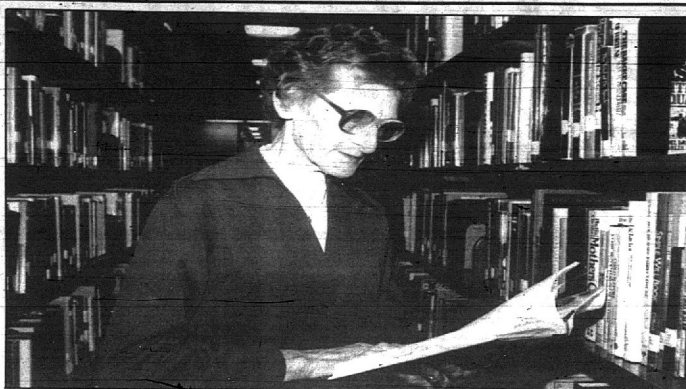

Those who were able to attend heard informative talks from members of the Granite City Police and Fire Departments.

The March service project of the month was the collection of used eyeglasses and hearing aids on behalf of the Lion's Club.

Chapter 1340's board has announced that due to the snow storm, the deadline for payment of 1989 chapter dues has been extended to 6:30 p.m., Wednesday, April 12.

Planning is under way for the annual May dinner/dance to be held on Wednesday, May 10. Tickets will cost $5 per person, and will go on sale beginning at 5 p.m., Wednesday, April 12. Dues must be paid for 1989, and the chapter membership card must be presented when purchasing tickets.

Members are reminded that the service project for the month of April will be a collection to benefit the Phoenix Crisis-Center in Granite City. Paper towels, toilet tissue, trash bags, and any cleaning items are being sought.

OLDEST GRADUATE? Marge Bishop of Granite City continues to take classes at the Granite City Campus of Belleville Area College even though she earned a degree last December. At 65, Bishop is believed to be among the oldest graduates of the college. She says she may show up in her dancing shoes at the May spring commencement. "I intend to wait right up there with all those teen-agers and get my degree," she said. Bishop completed requirements for an associate of applied science degree in word processing. She retired 10 years from the federal government.

SEMC dance slated Apr. 8

"Pick up your best girl or guy, put on your dancing shoes and make plans to attend SEMC's fund-raising dance on Saturday, April 8, at the Knights of Columbus Hall, 4225 Old Alton Road," said Excey Basuel.

Coordinated by Basuel, of the SEMC Dietitians' Office, the event will feature dancing from 8 p.m. to midnight to the music of the B-Street Express.

Made up of seven members, all from Granite City, the band has a repertoire that includes popular songs from the '50s through the '80s, in addition to some country rock and a "radio show."

"This is not just a fund-raising event, but also a fun time for everyone," said Basuel.

"It's a time to visit and to get together with other members of the SEMC family." Tickets are $8 per person and can be purchased through the Dietitians' Office, on the ground floor of the medical center, by Bonaventure's Cafeteria or in Public Relations on G-West.

Beer and set-ups will be available at the dance. Pizza and popcorn also will be sold. "We scheduled the dance for the spring when everyone's ready to get out and have fun after staying inside during the long winter months," Basuel said.

"Members of the SEMC board, administration, the Sisters, physicians, volunteers, associates, doctors' office staffs, and their families are encouraged to attend," he said.

"And to insure the sale of all tickets, an invitation is also being extended to the community."

Proceeds from the dance will help support the various community programs provided by the medical center.

"This is the first time we've held a fund-raising dance such as this," said Basuel. "We hope everyone will turn out in support of this event and help make it a big success." For more information on the dance, Basuel can be called at 798-3492.

911 awareness week set

By Valerie Evenden
Staff writer

PONTON BEACH — "911 Awareness Week" was proclaimed in the village for March 26 through April 4 by Mayor Glen Wilson and approved by trustees March 14.

The event is designed to call attention to the enhanced 911 emergency telephone system which is being proposed in Madison County. It will be voted on the April 4 election.

If approved by voters, the three-digit 911 emergency call system will be put throughout the county and could save valuable minutes when a life-threatening situation needs immediate response from police or fire personnel, proponents have said.

The 911 referendum, if passed, authorizes a 65-cent per telephone line surcharge to be collected for 24 to 36 months. After that, the charge would be reduced to cover only the maintenance of the system, trustees were told.

Additional information about the 911 system may be obtained by calling Alan J. Dunstan, County Board legislation committee chairman, at 1-692-6200, or Elizabeth Wilson.

In other action, trustees voted to donate $200 to the Greater Granite City Area War Memorial which is to include the names of war dead from Pontoon Beach, Mitchell, Stallings, Venice, Madison and Glenview.

When a donation was proposed at an earlier meeting, it was asked whether officials could help in the village funds for this purpose.

"The attorney said it's legal so I make a motion to donate $200," said Trustee Bob Abel.

The donation was approved. Public dedication and unveiling of the memorial will take place May 29 in Memorial Park across Madison Avenue from St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

High sugar hurts game plan

The following article is by Janet R. Burnett, University of Illinois Extension adviser in home economics.

Candy bars, honey and other sugary products have a reputation as "high-energy foods." For athletes, though, sugary foods can be a big mistake — especially just before a game or practice session.

High-sugar foods can increase the athlete's blood-glucose level, but that's only part of the story. When an athlete takes in a lot of sugar all at once, the blood-sugar level rises dramatically. However, this can cause the pancreas to release a lot of insulin, which, in turn, can lower blood sugar. This roller-coaster effect can only hinder athletic performance and leave the athlete feeling wrung-out and weak.

High-sugar snacks can cause other problems for the athlete, too. Large quantities of sugar may pull fluids into the gastrointestinal tract, away from body cells.

That can contribute to dehydration and may cause severe cramps and nausea.

Although sugary foods are not a good choice for a pregame meal or snack, starchy foods are an excellent choice. That's because starchy foods tend to stabilize blood-glucose levels and complement existing reserves of glycogen.

The pregame meal, while it is important, cannot be expected to supply the bulk of the energy an athlete will need during competition.

To build up those energy reserves, the athlete needs to eat a balanced diet from all food groups with some emphasis on starchy foods all week long. Spaghetti and other pastas, breads and other cereal products, and starchy vegetables such as potatoes are all good sources of complex carbohydrate or starch.

With a good physical training regime and adequate nutrition during the entire week, the athlete should store up enough muscle glycogen for up to two hours' worth of vigorous activity.

For more information on the energy needs of teen-age athletes, call the University of Illinois Extension Service, 656-8400 or write to P.O. Box 427, 900 Hillsboro, Edwardsville, Ill. 62025.

Comprehensive health insurance being offered

During March, Mutual of Omaha is mailing out applications to anyone interested in participating in the Illinois state government's new Comprehensive Health Insurance Program (CHIP).

"If you are interested in applying for CHIP, write Mutual of Omaha Insurance Company, Mutual of Omaha Plaza, Omaha, Neb. 68175, Attention: George Marvin, CHIP Administrator. For more detailed information on CHIP, persons may call 1-800-456-0224," a spokesman said.

Initial enrollment is limited to 4,000. If the initial applications exceed 4,000, the first enrollees will be determined by lottery.

CHIP premiums will range from $1,041 to $7,597 annually. In addition, enrollees in the program could have to pay up to $2,500 a year in deductibles and co-payments.

To apply for CHIP, proof of one of the following is required:

- 1) Rejection by an insurance company because of a high-risk medical condition;
- 2) Current health insurance rates higher than the CHIP rate;
- Or 3) one of the following qualifying medical conditions:

"If you have one of the following medical conditions, you need not obtain a letter of rejection from an insurance company. Persons with other medical conditions may also be eligible for CHIP, but must submit a letter of rejection for similar coverage from an insurance company," the spokesman said.

The list follows:
Angina Pectoris.
Arteriosclerosis Obliterans.

Coronary Occlusion.

Bereavement group to meet

Open to all the bereaved in the community, the People Needing People Bereavement Support Group, sponsored by Hospice of Madison County, will meet Tuesday, March 28, from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. at St. Elizabeth Medical Center, Granite City.

"Coming to your first meeting is the hardest part," said Mary Peach, RN, MSW, CSW, facilitator and founder of the support group.

"You have to drag yourself or be dragged. Then, once you get here, you want to cry. Everyone usually cries quite a bit during the first few meetings. It's hard to talk about your loss. It's so personal, and here you are in a group full of strangers."

"It takes some people a few meetings to warm up. Then, they realize they aren't the only ones who have experienced a loss, and that everyone in the group really cares. They start to get a sense of hope."

"These are people who have survived a loss. They have already gone through what you are experiencing now. It helps a lot of people," she said.

Although there are no restrictions on the group, Peach does have some advice.

"I would advise anyone not to come for the first three months after their loss. It is just too sudden and too painful. Of course, if you feel you are ready, we welcome you. Everyone grieves at their own pace. Some people might be able to handle meeting during those first months, but most people can't."

At the meetings, the group deals with practical problems left by the death of a loved one.

MADE FOR THE FRIENDS OF MAC WARFIELD

"We talk a lot about difficulties with housework, legal problems, financial situations and family crisis. We also talk about grief and its symptoms; independence versus dependence on children. The responsibilities you have when someone dies; restlessness and anxiety," Peach said.

"We also talk about family situations. One meeting, I had older widows talking about how much silence bothered them. Later on, I had widows with teenagers talking about how to cope with the noise. We talk about a lot of why's and if only's. Overall, we try to keep our sense of humor and talk over, in a relaxed and spontaneous way, any problems members of the group have."

"We try to create a safe and comfortable environment for sharing and support. We also want to help bereaved people to realize they are not alone and isolated," she said. "We do our share of mourning and crying. Then, we help ourselves to heal, by reaching out of ourselves to help others."

Things have changed!

At St. Elizabeth Medical Center you can now have a mammography with or without a physician's prescription.

Three running for Granite treasurer

GRANITE CITY—The race for treasurer is one of two city-wide three-way races.

Incumbent Gail Valle, 29, of 2815 Charles St. faces challengers Paul Ray Bowler, 37, of 2722A Center St., and Erv DeRousse, 50, of 3716 Johnson Road.

Bowler is a lifelong resident of Granite City. He is a field representative for the Illinois state treasurer and vice president of the Granite City School Board. He was previously vice president of Bowler Trucking and a teacher in the Granite City school system.

Bowler holds a bachelor's degree in psychology and sociology and a master's degree in education administration, both from Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

He was formerly treasurer of the Granite City school district and served as alderman in the 7th Ward for eight years. As an alderman, Bowler served as chairman of the Finance, Industrial Search, Insurance, and Planning and Zoning committees.

Bowler said he is seeking the office of city treasurer because he wants to provide fiscal responsibility and accountability for the taxpayers. He said the treasurer should be a watchdog over the city's money—speaking out on any fiscal program that affects taxpayers.

Among his accomplishments as chairman of the Finance Committee, Bowler listed the initiation of a centralized inventory purchase program that reduced expenditures by 20 percent, a self-insured worker compensation program that saved taxpayers more than $54,000, and a new major medical program that saved $140,000 a year, plus interest on the money invested.

He said that because he was chairman of Industrial Search, the committee brought in many industries including Ferallloy, FireCoat Metals, Heidman Steel, and Granite City Pickling.

Planning and Zoning, he said, put a stop to spot zoning and special use permits and instituted a comprehensive updated zoning ordinance that protected residential areas while also stimulating commercial development.

"My experience as Finance chairman would be invaluable to the office of treasurer," Bowler said. "I believe in and worked for fiscal responsibility while chairman, and many cost-saving programs were instituted. I feel we need an aggressive person who is not afraid to speak up against the politicians and for the taxpayers."

Bowler pleaded guilty in February to a federal-count of making a false statement on a loan application he filed in 1985 and is awaiting sentence on that count. "I think the voters understand the circumstances and know it does not affect my ability and qualifications to serve as treasurer," he said.

Bowler is single. DeRousse, currently city inspector, has lived in Granite City for 23 years. He was previously a territory manager for Clark Oil Co., responsible for auditing and operations covering a three-state area. He was formerly assistant business agent and formerly recording secretary for Teamsters Union Local 971. He is a graduate of Red Bud High School.

DeRousse is a member of St. Elizabeth Catholic Church. He is a former member of Teamsters

Gail Valle

Local 600 and is a member of the Granite City Ambassadors and the American Association of Retired Persons.

He said his experience auditing large accounts and supervising employees for Clark Oil, as well as his record as city inspector, qualify him for the treasurer office. He said the taxpayers deserve a better accounting of how their tax dollars are being spent.

DeRousse said taxpayers have paid the accounting firm of Price Waterhouse more than $67,000 during the past four years to audit city accounts. The audits have included recommendations to improve the efficiency of city government that have never been implemented, he said.

Recommendations cited by DeRousse include performing a reconciliation of general ledger postings to individual ledger card postings for the city-administered sales tax, performing periodic audits of selected sales tax returns to ensure proper reporting by businesses to the city, ensuring the city's complete listing of businesses required to pay city sales taxes, and strengthening controls surrounding the processing of cash receipts.

"These recommendations were intended to save tax dollars," DeRousse said. "These actions can and should be taken, and I'll take them. I am seeking to upgrade and modernize the methods of treasurer office operations, to include better investment practices and implementing programs recommended to safeguard tax monies and increase the efficiency of operations in the office—which the current treasurer has failed to do."

DeRousse and his wife Janet have four children.

Valle, a lifelong resident of Granite City, has been acting treasurer for 18 months. She was appointed by Mayor Von Dee Cruse to replace Treasurer Nick Petrillo, who died. She was previously deputy city treasurer. She has also worked as a clerk in the city retail sales tax division and as billing clerk in the city clerk's office.

She is a graduate of Granite City High School and attended the Continuation of Education for Municipal Treasurers program at Eastern Illinois University, Charleston.

She is a member of the Granite City Rotary Club and the Eagles Auxiliary and is a Cub Scout leader.

Valle said that, as treasurer, she collects and invests more than $11 million annually for the city.

and it will take strong leadership, the type I have provided on the council floor, to see this plan through to its completion."

Worthen and his wife Cynthia have three children.

Paul Ray Bowler

Erv DeRousse

Through prompt and wise investments, she said, the city has been able to receive $300,000 in annual interest. As custodian of the Police and Fire pension funds, she said she is responsible for more than $12 million.

Because Granite City has a Home Rule Sales Tax, Valle said, the treasurer is also the director of the city Department of Revenue. "That job, she said, entails keeping track of 500 businesses operating within the city limits.

Through careful monitoring, she said, she is able to collect about $1 million annually through this tax to relieve a burden that otherwise might fall on the shoulders of property owners.

Valle said the treasurer also has the job of township tax collector and that this multiple responsibility allows her to transfer dollars to the various taxing bodies more quickly.

"When dealing with millions of dollars, every day means thousands of dollars interest," she said. "The county treasurer makes disbursements, by law, every 30 days. I do it weekly and, in doing so, raise the revenues of all the districts which your tax dollar supports."

She said Granite City taxpayers deserve and need an experienced, dedicated and trusted professional to run the treasurer's office.

"It's not a job I sought for political reasons," Valle said.

"I've come to the office of treasurer with no political ties, no political debts and no political aspirations—but simply because I have been trained for it."

Valle and her husband John have two children.

UTILITY TAX

THE MAYOR SAYS
"LOOK AT THE RECORD"

Well, Let's Tell The Whole Story Mayor

June 18, 1985

On an aldermanic motion, which had no legal effect, Mayor Cruse voted to repeal the utility tax. The Mayor FULL WELL KNEW that this vote, like the referendum, had no legal effect.

Aug. 27, 1985

An ordinance to repeal the tax was finally prepared by the city attorney. When put to a vote, this time it was defeated 7-6. One Alderman changed his vote to defeat the repeal of the tax.

Nov. 18, 1985

The Alderman who changed his vote was given a much needed job at the sewage treatment plant by Mayor Cruse.

Sept. 2, 1986

The city council in a rule suspension vote demonstrated it had the power by an 8-5 margin to repeal the tax, but a motion to defer action by only two Aldermen was improperly allowed by Mayor Cruse.

Sept. 16, 1986

For some reason the city council majority for repeal of the tax lost some support and the tax repeal ordinance was again defeated!

1987, 1988, 1989

The Mayor failed and refused to introduce an ordinance to repeal the tax. In fact, he has never lived up to his campaign pledge to cut the tax!

Candidate Von Dee Cruse said before the 1985 election:

"I believe the voters should have a voice when saddled with the type and extent of the tax increases which they have experienced in the last four years. This referendum is my way of showing Granite Cityans that better fiscal responsibility and greater public involvement will be mainstays of my office when elected as their mayor."

"Vote NO - join my crusade to cut taxes. Vote for new leadership."

Mayor Cruse, on September 16, 1985, told the Aldermen before their vote:

"This is your judgment and if it gets a tie vote, I'll vote." He then reminded the Aldermen that the "City's financial picture could look bleak."

Although candidate Cruse used a tax repeal referendum to win your vote in 1985, throughout his term in office he openly expressed to and lobbied city officials and aldermen to keep the tax.

He said he wants to make sure that progress made in the last four years—in industrial expansion, the downtown district and general city growth—will continue.

"The 7th Ward has many problems which include sanitary sewers, high groundwater, stormwater drainage and zoning. I have diligently been working on a plan to find a solution and to acquire funding to solve these problems," he said.

Trustees OK, reject issues

By Valerie Evenden

PONTON BEACH — Continued support of the Southwest Illinois Metropolitan Area Regional Planning Commission was voted by trustees at their meeting March 14.

Cost of membership remains at 6 cents per capita, making the village's contribution $200.

The commission assists in coordinating economic development and provides advice to the village. The services offered will continue to benefit future growth in the Pontoon Beach area, said Carl E. Lippchur, commission president.

Approval was given for Assistant Police Chief Harold J. Denham to participate in arson investigation seminars at the Holiday Inn, Collinsville, on April 7-9.

Denham is among this area's top arson investigators and has received awards from firefighting groups, citing his expertise. It was noted a $50 expense fee also was approved.

A business license was approved for Robert J. Kuehnel, 3577 Rodney Drive, and Daniel Kuehnel of Granite City who plan to open Video Magic, a video sales and rental shop at 4066 Oakmont Drive.

Not receiving approval was membership in the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce. Trustees had discussed the topic at an earlier meeting, voicing disapproval of the Chamber's name. They said the name refers to Venice, Madison and Granite City.

Trustee Louis Whitsell suggested the village withhold a $300 fee this year. "I've tried to talk to them for two years, but I can't do any good," Mayor Glen Wilson said.

"Well, I don't think it's the right thing to do," Trustee Bob Abel said, urging continued membership.

"We've asked them to promote our area and they haven't done it," Trustee Bob Vincent responded.

"We've had business ventures out here and what have they done? Come out for a ribbon cutting. We can do that ourselves," Whitsell said.

No action was taken on a letter from the Chamber's Community Pride Committee reporting annual spring cleanup week April 15-22.

Scouts paved way in WW I bond effort

The following article is by Kevin Kasproch, a junior at Granite City High School in the secondary honors program. It is reprinted from the Illinois History, a magazine for young people. He is a member of the Letterman's Club and plays on the varsity soccer team.

For any nation, participation in a war is very expensive. During the First World War, President Wilson used bonds to help pay for the war. To stimulate the sales of these bonds, he encouraged the Boy Scouts of America to get involved, and the first Liberty Loan campaign of 1917 was a fine success because of their efforts.

When President Wilson saw the results of the first campaign, he decided to follow it with a second Liberty Loan drive. The newly formed Troop No. 1 of the Boy Scouts of America in Granite City decided to take up the challenge. The President announced that he would present a special United States flag to the Boy Scout troop selling the largest amount of Liberty Bonds of the second issue. With W.R. Webb as their scoutmaster, the Granite City Scouts knew they would have something important to strive for.

As the second Liberty Loan campaign came to an end in October 1917, Scoutmaster Webb believed the Granite City boys had an excellent chance of winning the President's flag. The total number of subscriptions taken was 2,059, amounting to around $186,300. The scouts hardly missed a person in town, and all that remained to do was to wait the final results reported by the National Council.

Meanwhile, the local troop began to receive much attention and recognition. Early figures indicated that Troop No. 1 was the Illinois scout troop earning the most money in the second Liberty Bond drive, but official totals had to be announced. Plans were made to reward the boys with a camping trip to the Ozark Mountains in Missouri featuring a 100-mile hike. Individuals awards included four war emblems and 17 war service medals.

Not yet awarded the flag, Troop No. 1 was already receiving well-deserved recognition.

After nearly five months of waiting, Scoutmaster Webb was notified on March 21, 1918, that Boy Scout Troop No. 1 of Granite City had been awarded the President's flag because the troop had secured more subscriptions in proportion to enrollment than any other troop. Friday, April 5, was the big day for Granite City Scouts. That evening, they were officially awarded the President's flag at a patriotic program held in the Granite City High School auditorium. At sunrise on Saturday morning, the scouts raised the new flag over the Granite City Post Office for a few minutes, and later in the afternoon carried the flag in a big Liberty Bond parade in St. Louis. Speeches and fireworks also marked the celebration.

It is not often that a group or individual has a chance to become number one or the best in something, especially in such an important undertaking as helping to pay for a war. The Granite City Scouts can be thanked for their time and hard work, but luckily they were able to achieve great success as well as receive national recognition for it.

300 review Scott use plan

By Dan Oliver
Staff affiliate

O'FALLON — This region's first public forum designed to answer residents' questions concerning the proposed joint-use airport at Scott Air Force Base left few stones unturned and few questions unanswered.

More than 300 attended the informational forum Wednesday night and submitted nearly 600 written questions on the issue.

Partisan citizen groups, plus local and state officials, answered questions for about three hours. The key players were:

• The Scott Joint-Use Citizens Committee.

• "Conserve Our Present Environment (COPE)."

• St. Clair County.

• The Illinois Department of Transportation.

The forum, sponsored by the O'Fallon Joint-Use Task Force, was designed to give residents the opportunity to hear both sides of the issue.

O'Fallon Task Force Co-Chairman Jack Brown said other cities in the area endorsed the airport project before all the answers were in.

O'Fallon decided to let the people hear and decide for themselves," he said.

Brown said the turnout for the forum was "a success."

A referendum on the joint-use issue will appear on the April 4 ballot in O'Fallon Township, Shiloh Valley Township and Mascoutah, asking voters if they favor the proposed expansion at Scott. The referendum is advisory and non-binding.

Those present were mostly homeowners from O'Fallon, Shiloh and Mascoutah. Several said afterward the forum confirmed their negative feelings about the joint-use plan.

"I smell a rat," said O'Fallon homeowner Dennis Sandelich. "The whole thing is political and designed to make money for big banks and developers. There are just too many unanswered questions."

Dennis Mueth, Mascoutah, said the same. He said the project is approved, five acres of his property will be used for a half-mile from the proposed runway.

"I'm thoroughly against it," he said.

Mueth added that the "political players who want this airport are going to get what they want eventually. I said he moved from Belleville several years ago to Mascoutah for its slow, rural pace.

"If the airport comes, I might just move again," he said.

Questions that residents directed at the panel touched a range of concerns, from the airport's cost, to its management, and to the loss of many jobs on the environment.

COPE member Bob Scheurer summed up his group's prime concern: "This whole idea of the joint-use facility has been over sold to the community."

"We don't like the idea of losing precious farmland and wildlife areas that our fathers worked so hard to preserve,"

Corky Cecil, representing the Scott Citizens Committee, said the airport project is crucial for the entire area.

"Everyone in this audience and their children will directly benefit from this project for years," he said.

Scott Citizens Committee spokesman Mary Kane defended the validity of a recent poll which indicated 70 percent of St. Clair residents favor the airport.

Kane said the poll, conducted by the East-West Coordinating Council earlier this year) surveyed 400 households in the area.

Burglars loot safe, ransack Moose hall

GRANITE CITY—Burglars looted a safe and caused extensive damage at Granite City Moose Lodge 272, 19th and Adams streets, where the break-in was discovered at 7:45 a.m. Friday. Detectives were called in to begin their investigation immediately after police were notified.

Virgil Singler, Moose administrator, noticed the kitchen door handle had been forced open when he drove into the club parking lot and entered the building through another door.

Singler found that all the coin-operated machines in the bar area had been forced open and the money taken. Locked cabinets were open and items had been removed. The cash register and locked drawers also were pried open.

His office was ransacked and the safe was found standing open, with currency gone, Singler said.

Cabinets and drawers in the office had been forced or pried open. More damage was caused in another area which housed the building's alarm system. The alarm control box had been torn from a wall.

All telephones in the club had been disabled by the intruders, who apparently left the building through a fire door in a hallway.

"The amount of cash and other loot taken has not yet been determined."

Service station robbed

GRANITE CITY—An armed robber stole an undetermined amount of cash from Len's Amoco Service Station at 2200 Pontoon Road at 2:40 a.m. Saturday.

The robber also struck the station attendant in the face before fleeing with the money.

Employee Craig A. Laboratory was working in a service bay at the station when a man wearing jeans and a brown leather jacket walked in and displayed a small automatic pistol.

The robber demanded money from the cash register. Laboratory 17, and the gunman walked into the office area, where the attendant removed some money from the drawer and handed it to the man.

At that point the gunman, who was in his 30s, struck Laboratory in the face and fled from the office, heading east on foot.

Laboratory's face was discolored and he had swelling to the left side of his face.

The gunman had brown hair, weighed 150 pounds and was wearing a 5-foot 9-inch tall.

An investigation is continuing.

Holland, Mich., trip offered

The Granite City Park District will sponsor the first of a series of three-day weekend trips when a bus goes to Holland, Mich., on May 19, 20 and 21.

The event will be a celebration of the Tulip Time Festival. Due to a scarcity of room accommodations in Holland, the group will be staying in Grand Haven, 15 miles from Holland.

After the day's journey on Friday, the evening will be spent in Holland at the Civic Center, where the "Stars of the Lawrence Welk Show" will perform in the biggest show of the festival.

On Saturday morning after breakfast, a stop will be made at the DeKlomp Wooden Shoe and Deft Factory before picking up a guide who will spend the day with the group.

Some of the features of the day will include street scrubbing and entertainment by the Klomp wooden shoe dancers; a stop at the Tulip Time Festival; a typical Dutch market with local craftsmen demonstrating and displaying their forms of art; Windmill Island; and America's only 200-year-old working Dutch windmill; and a parade of floats.

Eight miles of tulips will line the Holland streets. Saturday evening's dinner will be at the Holiday Inn, where the group will enjoy a Cabaret Dinner Theater production, "The All-Night Show."

Sunday will be spent traveling home, with stops to be announced.

Tickets are on sale at the Wilson's Office. Proof of residence must be presented for each person making the trip unless it is a man and wife reservation. Non-residents will be placed on a waiting list for six years," Warfield said.

The cost of the trip is $169.75 per person for a single, $128.75 each for two to a room, $114.75 per person for two to a room and $108.75 for four to a room. This includes the bus fare, motel, Lawrence Welk Show, tour guide, lunch on Saturday, Dutch Market, Windmill Island and the dinner theater. All fees must be paid at the time reservations are made.

Costello stacks up highest debts

By Joanne M. Schrof Staff affiliate

WASHINGTON—With a $75,000 campaign debt, Rep. Jerry Costello owes more money than any other Illinois congressman, according to Federal Election Commission reports for the 1987-88 election cycle.

Costello, the Belleville Democrat, hopes to have the debt paid off by the end of summer, spokesman Brian Lott said, who added that Costello is not yet in the process of building up a war chest for the next campaign.

"The goal is to pay off the debt and not necessarily to have a big campaign fund built up by then," Lott said.

While Costello outspent his opponent by a margin of 5 to 1, his victory was much narrower, winning with 33 percent of the vote to GOP hopeful Robert Gaffner's 47 percent.

"There's no doubt that the money was important in the campaign," Lott said, but added that the figures were misleading.

Gaffner got a lot of national support from the Republicans, but most of Costello's support was local, Lott said, adding, "Costello received mainly nominal, but much appreciated, support from the Democratic National Committee."

The Belleville lawmaker figures prominently on several top 50 lists published recently by the FEC, not only for spending, but also for raising money.

Costello ranked in the top 10 percent of House seat contenders, both for total campaign revenues and for the amount in contributions from individuals.

Mucci said Monday afternoon that he did not disagree with Vest's treatment of the woman, but he did expect better communication from Vest. "If I send patients out, I expect to be called back," he said. "I referred the patient, and that's all I did. Naturally I'm disappointed."

The case has national implications and is being written up in law journals, Mateyka said, because a portion of the jury award was based on what has become known as "hedonic value of life," that is loss of pleasure of life. An internationally known Chicago economist, Stanley Smith, testified on his theory during the trial, linking it with the financial effect it will have on Ferguson.

"The jury award is itemized," said Mateyka, "and they put in scanners were busy virtually the entire day.

Under water for several hours was a stretch of Nameoki Drive in North Granite, where Clarence McKee Sr. reported pumping 150 gallons of water from his basement at 3013 Nameoki Drive. He said his neighbor at 3015 Nameoki Drive had a 20-foot pond in her yard.

The house at 2719 Nameoki Drive was surrounded by a small lake, which cut its residents off from the street. Two children, three a three-foot plastic boat off the porch and watched it float in the yard.

McKee blamed the street department, claiming workers were inept at road grading, which he said was why the street flooded.

Warfield scoffed at that, saying, "A month ago, McKee and I were out on the street at my office that that's the best that corner's ever been."

He added that there wouldn't be any flooding problem on Nameoki Drive if Mayor Cruse succeeded in connecting two holding ponds in the neighborhood with a culvert. The larger of the two ponds is at 25th Street and Nameoki Drive; the other is at the end of the Briarcliff Addition, Warfield said.

"The engineering department has been trying to get the right of way for six years," Warfield said.

Cruse could not be reached for comment. One of Cruse's backers said Monday's flooding illustrated the lack of efficiency during Warfield's tenure as street superintendent.

Not coincidentally, Cruse and Warfield were among the candidates competing for the office of mayor in the April 4 city election.

Other survivors are a stepson, John Green of Tampa, Fla.; three stepdaughters, Carolyn Lewin and Linda File, both of Edwardsville, and Sue Daniels of Bethalto, two sisters, Gertrude Iringshausen of Jerseyville and Wilma Novy of Litchfield; 15 grandchildren and his numbers, $882,000." Richard Roessler, attorney for Vest, was vacationing and unavailable for comment after the verdict. During trial he argued that medical literature indicated that vaginal cancer can be treated without confirmation beyond what Vest used.

Q: How does it work?

A: Dialing 911 instantly locks your phone to a complete emergency system of fire, ambulance and police protection. You cannot be disconnected. Even if you cannot speak, or have to leave the phone, the line is instantly traced to your address. Children can learn 911 even if they are too young to remember their address or phone number.

Q: What if the caller panics?

A: It doesn't matter. The second the connection is made, your location is identified. Emergency equipment will be sent to that location immediately. Even if you hang up, it still continues to protect you.

Q: Would dialing the operator be faster?

A: No. An operator must find out where you are calling from. The operator has your telephone number, but must look up your address and determine which agency should respond to your emergency.

Q: How can we get 911 in Madison County?

A: By a simple majority vote in favor of the referendum on April 4.

Q: What will it cost me?

A: Each household and business will pay 65 cents monthly per phone line for 24 to 36 months, to build the system. The charges will be included in the telephone bill. After that, monthly charges will drop to cover the maintenance cost of the system.

Q: When will it be available?

A: If approved by voters on April 4, the system will be installed. It will take between 24 and 36 months for it to be installed and be fully operational.

Q: When will the phone company start collecting the surcharge?

A: Ninety days after passage of the referendum.

Q: If it is going to take 24 to 36 months to become fully operational, what will the money collected before the start-up date be used for?

A: The funds collected during the start-up period will be used to design the system, to code the initial Master Street Address Guide and to purchase and install 911 equipment. This approach will keep costs down because no funds will have to be borrowed to create the system.

Q: Who will manage the system?

A: An Emergency Telephone System Board appointed by the Madison County Board will oversee the operation of the system. Board members will be representatives of all emergency services in the county.

Q: Who has 911 now?

A: 911 serves citizens of Illinois in cities as large as Chicago (population 3.4 million) to towns as small as Minook (population 4,000). In Madison County, the cities of Edwardsville and Highland have basic 911 service which does not identify the name and address of the caller. Once the countywide system is established, all citizens will have the state-of-the-art enhanced 911 system.

Homeowners should make burglar's job hard

By Scott Cousins
Staff affiliate

While it may be impossible to stop a determined burglar, homeowners can reduce their risk of being victimized by making it more difficult for the criminals and watching out for each other, according to Det. Leonard Suhre of the Madison County Sheriff's Department.

Suhre was one of several speakers at a seminar Tuesday on rural crime in Madison County. The seminar was sponsored by the Madison County Farm Bureau and the U of I Extension Service.

Suhre said several assumptions made about burglaries have changed since he joined the sheriff's department.

When he started, burglaries usually occurred at night. Today about half occur in the daytime.

"More and more people are away from the home during the day," he said. "Both people work, the kids are in school and the house is unattended."

If someone returns home and believes a burglar is in the house, he or she should avoid confronting the intruder when possible.

"Because right then, when you've seen this activity, you're a witness for us. If you go in and confront the person and get hurt or get killed, you're no longer a witness," he said.

If a burglary is discovered, Suhre said nothing should be touched because evidence can be destroyed.

The key is keeping burglars out of the home.

"All exterior doors need to be solid wood or metal doors," he said. "On these doors you need to have a double cylinder dead-bolt lock. Double cylinder means it is keyed both on the inside and outside of the door."

He said if it is keyed on both sides, the burglar has to break out of the house or find some other way in. It also means he has to take his foot out the same way.

"It's a way of slowing him down to minimize the amount of property he can take," Suhre said.

The disadvantage of having a double cylinder dead bolt lock is if there is a fire and you panic, it's going to take extra time to get out that door," he added.

"It's a trade-off. You have to make up your mind which you think can happen."

Homeowners should make sure windows cannot be opened from the outside, he said.

A simple way is to drill a hole through the sash into either the window frame or another sash and place a nail in the hole.

Alarms can also be useful.

"There are two types of alarms, silent and audible," Suhre said. "As a police officer, I like the silent alarms; they're going to give us a chance to apprehend the person in the act."

"As a homeowner, and knowing the response time is going to be 15 minutes, I want an audible alarm because I want to draw attention to my house," he said.

Dogs also get attention. "It's been my experience that the smaller dogs produce the most noise, and the bigger dogs produce the most fear," he said.

Popular items burglars are looking for include cash, jewelry, electronic equipment and guns.

Cash and jewelry cannot be traced and jewelry is easily sold. "The advantage you have on guns and audio-visual equipment is that they have serial numbers," he said. "Record the serial numbers."

"You cannot stop your house from being burglarized, but you try to slow them down and make it hard for them to get in."

"That reduces your chances of being a burglary victim."

Sheriff: Burglary too easy & too safe

By Scott Cousins
Staff affiliate

Methods may differ, but burglars continue to plague people because it is easy, profitable and there is little chance of being caught, according to Det. Leonard Suhre of the Madison County Sheriff's Department.

That was the message to about 35 people attending a recent seminar on crime in rural Madison County.

The workshop featured talks by Lt. Dennis Fischer and Detective Leonard Suhre, and a demonstration.

Both said burglary is the most common crime in the area served by the sheriff's department, and also one of the most difficult to solve.

In Madison County, there were 206 burglaries in 1988, according to Fischer.

"You don't have any witnesses," Suhre said. "A good burglar is a sneak thief."

He gave several examples of methods used by burglars.

We started noticing a lot of people were starting to get harassing phone calls," he said. "As soon as they picked up the receiver, there was no one on the other end. The other thing that was happening was that we were getting hit with these other burglaries."

What was happening? The burglars were finding out if the person was home, he said.

"They would go to a pay phone and dial the number," he said. "After six rings, nobody's home."

"They would lay the phone down so it keeps ringing, go over to the house and listen. If they heard it ringing, they would go in."

Another burglar would look for the mailman. "Everybody wants to know what they've got in their mail," he said.

"People always get their mail right off the bat, and if the burglar didn't see anyone come and get their mail they figured they could go in."

When a burglary is reported, Fischer said, the sheriff's department usually takes long to respond than most city departments because of the area each deputy covers.

"There are problems that are inherent with sheriff's departments, and response time is one of them," he said.

When a burglary occurs, a deputy takes the basic information, and within a few days the report makes its way to the office in Edwardsville, where the chief of detectives will read the report and decide if it is to be assigned to a detective.

Fischer said when a crime is committed without witnesses and the criminal leaves no physical evidence while at another crime scene is a witness and some kind of evidence, it is usually obvious which is going to be investigated.

"If there's no witnesses or physical evidence at the scene, it's tough," Fischer said.

However, the file is kept, and occasionally property is recovered. And sometimes the burglar is caught.

A portion of the cost of attending will be reimbursed upon completion of the seminar.

Pulmonary Support Group meets weekly on Wednesdays

If you have a chronic obstructive pulmonary disease, including conditions like emphysema, asthma, chronic bronchitis and bronchiectasis, you could benefit from the weekly educational support group for people with chronic obstructive pulmonary disease, a St. Elizabeth Medical Center spokesman said.

The group is called the Pulmonary Support Group. It meets every Wednesday from 1 to 2 p.m. on the fourth floor solarium at the medical center.

The group gives the person with a pulmonary disease a chance to meet and share common experiences with others who have the same type of illness. The group facilitates SEMC social worker Jackie Morris said.

"These illnesses can never be cured. By taking care of themselves and learning to manage environmental deterrents, people with these illnesses can get better."

For fans of country music, Nashville trip's like home

By Tom and Joanne O'Toole

Country entertainers and their fans look upon one another as family. To help perpetuate the ties, Nashville, Tenn., hosts an annual early summer event called Fan Fair. Armies of devoted followers descend on a cluster of exhibit buildings at the state fairgrounds to visit with their favorite performers and share what they feel is an intimate contact.

At Fan Fair, which is almost two decades old, fans expressing complete loyalty and deep affection stand in line for hours just to hear their favorite stars say a few personal words, sign an autograph, or pose for a picture. It's mass confusion.

Each afternoon and evening is show time in the jam-packed grandstands. The most famous stars appear at night.

Nashville has a magic that draws you into country music even if you previously were not addicted. Talented waiting to be discovered can be found on the stages of many local bars and night spots and in the shows at Opryland.

A good example is the Nashville Palace, across from the entrance to the Opryland Hotel. Just a few years ago, Randy Travis was a dishwasher there. On breaks he would come on stage and sing a couple of songs.

Another popular spot in town is the Bull Pen Lounge in the basement of the Stockyards Restaurant. The area around the main entrance frequently is graced with celebrity limousines.

The Nashville phenomenon began with a radio program called the WSM Barn Dance, first broadcast on Nov. 28, 1925. It featured the relatively unchanged mountain music that arrived with the early Scottish-Irish-English settlers. The show soon reached millions of listeners every Saturday night, and by 1951 it moved into the Ryman Auditorium. It was here the early stars were born, and a few like Minnie Pearl and Roy Acuff now are superstars.

In 1963 the Ryman was renamed the Grand Ole Opry House, and the show became the Grand Ole Opry. By 1974 the mushrooming popularity that boomed from its battered wooden stage forced another move, this time to a 4,400-seat home on the grounds of Opryland USA.

The Opry continues to be an informal, unrehearsed live radio show in the world.

The Grand Ole Opry and the musical theme park Opryland are in the forefront of a spreading entertainment network. Under the same umbrella are the luxurious Opryland Hotel and the popular General Jackson Showboat, which are very visible to the vacationing public, along with less noticeable radio stations, music production facilities, television programs and the cable television Nashville Network.

In Hendersonville, along Gallatin Pike, are Music Village USA, Twitty City and the House of Cash.

Near the entrance to the Opryland Hotel are the Boxcar Willie Railroad Museum and the Ernie Tubb show bus.

About a mile away at the intersection of Briley Parkway and Gallatin Road is the "Gentleman" Jim Reeves Museum. The showman crashed his Beechcraft airplane in 1969, snuffing out a career that made him famous around the world before he was 40.

On the grounds of Opryland USA is the Roy Acuff Museum, devoted mainly to the development of string instruments. Many of the guitars, balalaikas, fiddles, mandolins and other unusual string items were CATZ collected by Acuff.

Barbara Mandrell Country is directly across from the Country Music Hall of Fame. At the other edge of the parking lot in a yellow gingerbread house is Minnie Pearl's Museum.

Across the street in a glitzy strip of tourist traps is the Hank Williams Jr. Museum, devoted equally to his late father and himself.

For more information on the local country scene, contact the Nashville Area Chamber of Commerce, 161 Fourth Ave. N., Nashville, Tenn. 37203 or call (615) 250-3900.

Tennessee thrilling in '89

New multimillion dollar rides at Opryland and a dinner excursion train in Nashville are some of the new attractions travelers will find in Tennessee.

The biggest single new attraction in Tennessee for 1989 is Chaos, Opryland's new $7 million indoor thrill ride that is being billed as a "coaster-hybrid" combining traditional roller coaster thrills with state-of-the-art audio-visual technology. The ride, which contains 2.1 million cubic feet of space, is the largest investment in the history of the Nashville theme park.

Veteran entertainer Brenda Lee has signed on for a second season headlining Opryland's "Music! Music! Music!" extravaganza, and the park also has added the "Minnie Pearl Museum," which has moved from its previous location on Nashville's "Music Row."

"The Hermitage," President Andrew Jackson's elegant

Nashville home, has opened a new visitor center containing a large auditorium for presentation of a new orientation film. The center also contains a restaurant and a new museum displaying such artifacts as Jackson's personal carriage.

Also new in Nashville for 1989 are: "The Broadway Train," a 2½-hour railroad excursion featuring a gourmet four-course meal; "Church Street Center," a new $30 million downtown enclosed retail shopping area; "The Nashville Toy Museum," with a charming collection of all types of toys; "The Museum of the Americas," with exhibits ranging from Indian artifacts to one of the oldest surviving Gatling Guns; and "Waterland," a new water theme park opening this spring near Opryland.

Those who wish more information on Tennessee attractions should contact the Tennessee Department of Tourist Development, Room T, Box 25170, Nashville, Tenn. 37202.

Coppola, Scorsese and Allen combine talent for 'Stories'

I doubt there ever will be three more successful directors who love New York City as much as Francis Coppola, Martin Scorsese and Woody Allen.

Their teaming in the new Touchstone Pictures movie, "New York Stories" (***½), is an inspired, almost landmark collaboration that will keep film fans and motion picture historians interested for years.

The three filmmakers obviously share the hypothesis that New York City is a kind of magical urban oasis, and that conviction comes through in wondrous, varied and believable displays in all three segments.

For me, the last of the three stories was the best, but that's because I still laugh regularly at Woody Allen's "Take the Money and Run" from 1969. Called "Oedipus Wrecks," it is Allen's shortest comedy and perhaps his best. It is the story of a man named Sheldon Mills whose mother, played by Mae Questel, is a world-class nagger.

For example, she comes into her son's office waving a program from the musical "Cats" and yelling out loud that one of her son's partners, a man named Bates, "is the one with the mistress." She also tells Sheldon's fiancée, played by Mia Farrow, "You know, his father, may be rest in peace, was completely bald, too." When Sheldon objects, she counters, "You will be!"

Then one day Sheldon's mom literally disappears. While cooperating in a magician's act, she vanishes for real. Sheldon is pleased until his mom reappears in the skies above Manhattan as a large, floating mothering fountainhead. She is still gabbing with anyone who will listen about Sheldon. She even shows off his baby pictures and reminds strangers that his real last name is Millstein.

"Oedipus Wrecks" is classic, essential Woody Allen comedy. "Life Lessons," directed by Martin Scorsese, has Nick Nolte playing Lionel Doherty, a stylishly disheveled and always impassioned artist going through his usual pre-exhibition panic. Rosanna Arquette is Paulette, Doherty's beautiful assistant, whose cool demeanor drives him mad with envy and passion. "Life Lessons" is a splendid vehicle for Nolte, who gives a sterling performance. This segment's mixing of art with romance is an engaging, lively combination.

Francis Coppola's portion of this filmed feast, "Life Without Zoe," is the segment of least depth. It is the story of a rich little schoolgirl (Heather McComb) who lives at the Sherry-Netherland Hotel. She is catered to by an adoring staff because her parents are almost always gone. The child's comic adventures include lots of storybook color and juvenile splendor. The entire message of "Life Without Zoe" seems to be that being rich is fun, but not without its shallow problems, even if you are just a kid.

You have never seen anything quite like "New York Stories" before, and you most likely never will. It is a marvelous anthology of scripts, accented with fitting music and backdrops, that captures the essence of life in New York City.

Rated PG (adult situations). Running time: 130 minutes. Rating based on four stars.

Showtime 'Moonwalks'

Showtime Networks Inc. has acquired the exclusive pay cable rights to Michael Jackson's "Moonwalker" for a reported figure of slightly more than $1 million. The 94-minute musical anthology will bow April 15 on Showtime. The film was turned down by all major theatrical film exhibitors because they felt the price was too high compared to its box office potential.

Horseradish Festival set

By Ed Gurney

Staff affiliate
COLLINSVILLE — A five-kilometer run, hot air balloons, horseradish toss and Easter egg-type root hunt are planned for the second annual Horseradish Festival Saturday, May 6.

The festival is being moved this year to Woodland Park from Listman Park. Where several hundred people attended the first event last April 30.

Festival co-chairman Pat O'Neal of Bill Keller Farms said it is hoped attendance will be much greater than last year.

Collinsville and the surrounding area produce most of the world's supply of horseradish.

The parking lot near Fletcher Field will be the center of the activities, O'Neal said.

The five-kilometer (3.1-mile) run will be held in the morning. Racers will go from Woodland Park toward Collinswoods subdivision and back.

The root hunt will feature roots with tags redeemable for prizes.

The horseradish toss, a success last year, will be held again, O'Neal said.

Getting a handle on fixing loose hardware on doors

By Al Schneider
Central Hardware's
Mr. Tinker

If you have cabinet knobs or door handles that rattle every time you pass them, or if the handles on an old dresser seem to come off whenever you are in a hurry, find a spot for "hardware replacement" on your household job list.

Every home has hardware handles that need a little attention from time to time. After years of use, handles always seem to break or come loose at the worst possible moment. I recommend that you take a look around your home and fix a few of these "problems in waiting."

If you are just replacing your hardware, remember that handles, knobs, pulls and catches come in all shapes and sizes. When you go to the store, take along your old hardware to be certain you buy exactly what you need. If you are ready for a change, there are certain types of hardware that may work better than others on your particular piece of furniture or style of door. Choose carefully.

If I decide to put on new handles, knobs or pulls, I often drill new holes in the door or drawer front. Chances are that the old, loose hardware including the screws have worn away some of the wood from the original holes. New holes will help seal the new hardware a firm seating.

I generally use plastic wood to fill in the old holes. Color the dried filler material with a simple child's crayon or mixture of crayon colors and blend it with a finger to match your wood tone. This process will make the old holes almost invisible to the eye.

Hardware comes in a variety of colors and materials, from plastic to metal to wood and more, which make the decorating possibilities almost endless.

I prefer to position handles, pulls or knobs just above the center line on a drawer, and I generally install two if the drawer is more than 18 to 20 inches wide.

Your drawer pulls may have broken or come loose because of the friction between the handle and the glides. Check your drawer glides. I use paraffin wax to keep drawer runners, especially wooden ones, sliding smoothly.

If you want to install catches to help keep the doors closed, I recommend you locate the catch as close as possible to the outside edge of the door where handles will open it. This will eliminate any undue pressure on the hardware.

Finally, when selecting hardware, keep in mind the use that the cabinet will have. Typically, rubber or roller casters are the least noisy and most durable. If you have children, this may be a good opportunity for you to install safety latches with finger access to guard against poisoning.

These are my recommendations for simple cabinet and drawer repair. If you need more advice, call me at Central Hardware's Mr. Tinker Hotline, 346-3000. I'd be happy to help.

SHOWER OF FLOWERS: Enjoy spring all year long by bringing the garden indoors. According to the National Decorating Products Association, there are almost as many floral patterns available in wallcovering and fabric as there are flowers. Popular for 1989 will be crisp colors and white backgrounds, making for a look as fresh as spring itself.

Difficult gardening year taught valuable lessons

The past year was a challenge to the home gardener. Though the severe drought of recent years occurred this past summer, the damage it wreaked was tempered by a few pleasant surprises.

Some plants did better than usual, such as roses, which showed fewer disease problems due to the drier conditions and, amazingly, excellent growth.

With careful observation, there were lessons to be learned. Some plants proved they were able to handle the harsh conditions that characterized 1988. Vinca, or periwinkle, came through the heat with flying colors. New hybrids are on the horizon that will be even more spectacular.

In petunias, the Summer Madness Series and new Ultra Series did very well. Ageratum, on the other hand, failed to stand up to the heat and the color was disappointing. Seed germinations available in such an array of colors outdid the zonals grown from cuttings. The impatiens stood up well throughout the growing season where grown in semishade.

Watering was critical but where automatic systems were used, patterns had to be changed from previous years. The tendency was still to water too often but not for a long enough period to encourage deep rooting.

January is an exciting month for gardeners. It is a time to start looking into what is new in the plant kingdom as well as new gadgets and other related materials. The new catalogs have been arriving, providing an opportunity to see what the hybridizers have to offer.

With the thought that we may continue to see drier years ahead, it is important to select plants that are as drought-resistant as possible.

Insect resistance is very important in plant selection so that the use of insecticides that can adversely affect our environment is reduced.

Plants such as tomatoes and peppers are especially sensitive to heat. Better yields can be obtained from types bred to stand higher temperatures.

The early part of the new year also is a perfect time for garden planning. Carefully evaluate your landscape, based on considerations and questions like these:

Do your garden have winter interest? Do your plantings attract birds to the yard? Maybe new plants need to be added to replace old ones that have outgrown their usefulness and size. Shady areas may need new plantings to lower maintenance and add more interest.

With careful design and the right plants, your garden can become your own personal oasis, a peaceful retreat where you can relax and enjoy the soothing beauty of Mother Nature.

Plant cuttings double pleasure of gardening

Longer days and stronger light are signaling the approach of springtime. Consider heightening your garden's beauty this year by taking cuttings from plants brought indoors last autumn.

When garden plants that wintered indoors send out new shoots, which happens about this time of year, it is time to take cuttings.

Cuttings can be used for extra hanging baskets, containers and bedding-plant areas.

With limited indoor space where plants can be grown in normal light, I resort to my basement, where I keep the plants under artificial light for 14 to 18 hours each day through the winter. A number of these now are growing actively and are ready for cuttings to be taken.

Cuttings should be taken only from healthy, insect-free plants, and if a flowering type, from ones noted for heavy flowering. Select stock that is 4 to 6 inches long and cut just below a leaf node. Remove up to one-third of the lower leaves and any flowering parts.

Cuttings of many types of plants can be rooted in water, though this is not the best method. When rooting occurs, usually in a week or two, the plant is ready for potting into a container.

This method has one major drawback. Roots need oxygen. Cuttings in water develop thick white roots that enable them to absorb oxygen from the water. When the cuttings are moved into the growing media, they must start growing normal roots to absorb oxygen from the air in the media. Plants suffer a severe setback and the problem is not corrected until adequate roots develop.

The ideal method is to root cuttings in a mixture of 3 parts horticultural perlite and 1 part sphagnum peat moss. The size of the container should be determined by the number of cuttings to be rooted in it. It is best not to mix different types of plants because they will root at different times.

A rooting hormone may be used according to label directions to ensure better, quicker results.

Insert the cuttings in the media so that about 2 inches of the stems are covered. Cuttings may be placed relatively close together. Grow cuttings in an area that receives strong light from the sun, or under artificial lights, with the source of light as close to the plants as possible without scorching of the tops occurring. Ideally, the temperature should be 70 degrees.

Keep the humidity high by misting occasionally or by placing the containers in plastic bags until roots have developed.

When well-rooted, pot cuttings into temporary containers or directly into hanging baskets or other permanent containers for growing on until ready to place outdoors. Plants should be given regular feedings of liquid fertilizer for best development.

Consider taking more cuttings than you have room for, so you can surprise friends or relatives with gifts from your garden.

Do you have problems with your garden or household plants? If so, direct your questions to The Garden Spot, St. Louis News Service, 1215 Fern Ridge Parkway, Suite 108, St. Louis, Mo. 63141.

Take precautions when using lead-based paint

Take these precautions when stripping paint. Here's what you should know before trying to remove old layers of lead-based paint:

- Wear a mask.
- The Consumer Product Safety Commission suggests a federally approved, toxic dust, respirator mask or a dual-filter mask that fits tightly on the face. It's important to guard against paint fumes as well as paint dust.

- Seal off other areas.
- High risk persons.

Children, pregnant women, nursing mothers and those with high blood pressure should leave the house during paint removal and cleanup.

Look for reputable firm when moving

If you are a typical American family and have moved from one residence to another at some point in your life, you probably have experienced the trauma of moving a house full of furniture, dogs, cats and kids.

But you needn't have fretted over the furniture if you would have secured the services of a reputable, professional mover, preferably one that is bonded and insured and guarantees safe passage of clients' belongings.

You should look for a company that does those things, said the owner of one area moving company, Doris Randall.

"Our clients do the packing of their things and take down their beds," Randall said. "They can leave all their clothing in dressers but nothing breakable such as glass or jewelry."

Randall said all furniture moved is padded to protect it. What does it cost to move an average household of furniture of five rooms across town?

Local moves are priced by the hour, Randall said. "It would cost $60 dollars an hour if we use three movers and $30 dollars an hour for two men."

Randall said long distance rates are determined by distance and are regulated by Interstate Commerce Commission rules.

As an example, to move a household of furniture from this area to Springfield, Ill., a distance of nearly 100 miles, it would cost about $1,050 dollars. Rates, naturally increase with the distance of the move.

"The main thing when hiring movers," Randall said, "is to make sure they are qualified people."

Easter dinner comes to table cooked in bunny-quick time

By Judy Eddy
Home economist

It is time to plan that big dinner for Easter. A cook will be busier than a Mother Bunny, devoting much time and thought to make dinner pleasing in sight and taste. Whether dinner comes from one kitchen or several, the food needs to look delightful, taste scrumptious and take a minimum time for preparation to a meal that is as pretty to look at as it is delightful to taste. The recipe is from "Let's Cook Microwave" by Barbara Harris, Microwave Cooking Services, 1987.

A layered cheesecake goes together quickly with few ingredients and provides a finishing touch to a meal that is as pretty to look at as it is delightful to taste. The recipe is from "Let's Cook Microwave" by Barbara Harris, Microwave Cooking Services, 1987.

Cheesecake

- 1 cup crushed vanilla wafers or graham cracker crumbs
- 5 to 6 tbsp. plus 1/2 cup sugar
- 1/2 cup margarine or butter, softened
- 1 (8 oz.) pkg. cream cheese, softened
- 1 tsp. almond extract
- 1 egg
- 1 cup dairy sour cream
- 1 (21 oz.) can fruit or lemon pie filling

Crush cracker crumbs by placing in plastic bag and rolling over them with rolling pin until crumbs are fine-textured.

Melt margarine in microwave oven on high 20 to 30 seconds. Add 2 to 3 tablespoons sugar and margarine to crumbs in plastic bag. Mix together. Pour crumb mixture in microwave-safe pie plate. Cook on high 2 minutes, stirring once. Press crumb mixture on bottom and sides of pan. Cook on high 1 minute.

Combine cream cheese, 1/2 cup sugar, 1/2 teaspoon almond extract and egg. Beat until fluffy.

Pour into crumb crust. Cook on high 3 to 4 minutes, rotating dish halfway through cooking time. Stir together sour cream, 3 tablespoons sugar and 1/2 teaspoon almond extract. Spread over cream cheese layer. Microwave 2 to 3 minutes on high, rotating halfway through cooking time.

Remove from oven. Top with cherry or blueberry or prepared lemon pie filling. Chill until served.

Note: Prepared crumb crust may be used in microwave-safe pan. This recipe can be modified somewhat to reduce amount of fat for those on a fat-restricted diet by substituting plain yogurt for sour cream in the second layer. The taste is a bit different, but still delicious and light.

CLOSED EASTER SUNDAY

IRRESISTIBLE DESSERTS add a flower to the Easter bonnet that denotes the unofficial start of spring.

Easter: time for baskets full of extra sweet egg goodies

Easter signals the arrival of spring, whether the calendar agrees or not.

To begin festivities, treat children to crunchy Polka Dot Easter Eggs. A traditional Easter basket made with refrigerated breadsticks can be filled with grass and candy. Finish the Easter celebration by serving guests Elegant Orange Chocolate Mousse.

Polka dot Easter eggs

- 3/4 cup butter or margarine
- 1 bag (10 oz.) marshmallows
- 1 qt. popped corn, unsalted
- 1 tsp. vanilla
- 1 cup color-coated chocolate peanut candies
- 1/2 cup golden raisins
- 1/2 cup unsalted peanuts

In medium saucepan, melt butter. Add marshmallows. Stir until melted and well combined. Remove from heat. Add vanilla.

Pour over popped corn in greased 5-quart bowl. Add candies, raisins and peanuts. Toss until well coated.

Dampen hands slightly with cold water. Form 1/2 cup mixture in egg shapes. Place on baking sheet. Repeat to make 2 dozen eggs. Store in covered container. Separate layers with waxed paper.

Makes 2 dozen eggs.

Elegant orange chocolate mousse

- 2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
- 1/2 cup water
- 2 pkg. (3 oz. each) 24 ladyfingers container (6 oz.) frozen orange juice concentrate, thawed
- 1 pkg. (12 oz.) vanilla milk chips or white chocolate wafers
- 3/4 cup butter or margarine
- 8 large eggs, separated, at room temperature
- 1/2 cup granulated sugar
- 1 cup whipping cream, chilled
- 1/2 cup confectioner's sugar
- 1 cup color-coated chocolate candies

In small bowl, sprinkle gelatin over water. Let soften 5 minutes. Separate ladyfingers in halves. Brush cut surfaces lightly with 1/4 cup orange concentrate. With uncut surface facing out, line bottom and side of 10-inch springform pan with ladyfinger halves, cutting to fit where necessary.

In large heavy saucepan over low heat, melt chips with butter. Stir to blend. Stir in remaining orange juice concentrate. Stir in softened gelatin. Cook over low heat 2 minutes, stirring constantly, until gelatin is melted. Remove from heat.

With wooden spoon, beat in egg yolks, one at a time, beating well after each addition.

Transfer mixture to medium bowl. Place in large bowl of ice and water. Chill until mixture is consistency of unbeaten egg white, stirring frequently, about 20 minutes.

In small bowl, beat egg whites until frothy. Gradually beat in granulated sugar, a little at a time, until stiff peaks form.

In another small bowl, beat whipping cream until soft peaks form. Gradually beat in confectioner's sugar. Fold beaten egg white and whipped cream into orange mixture, folding until no white streaks remain.

Set aside 1/4 cup candies. Gently fold rest of candies into mixture. Pour into prepared springform pan. Refrigerate at least 6 hours or overnight.

Just before serving, garnish top of mousse with reserved candies. Remove side of springform pan. Place mousse on serving plate. Cut in 12 wedges.

Easter bread basket

- 2 pkg. (11 oz. each) refrigerated breadsticks
- 1 large egg
- 1/2 cup basket grass, candy, decorated eggs as desired

Unroll both packages of breadsticks. Separate dough at perforations.

To make base, twist 2 strips of dough together. Wind, coil-fashion, in center of ungreased baking sheet. Twist 2 more strips together. Attach to end of coil, continuing to wind around, enlarging base. Repeat with 2 more twisted dough strips, enlarging base to about 6 inches.

In small bowl, lightly beat egg with 1 teaspoon water. Use to brush bread basket base.

To make side of basket, twist 2 more strips bread dough together. Place on top of edge of basket. Twist 2 more dough strips together. Tightly pinch to end of previous twisted strand. Repeat once more, to complete side of basket. Brush basket with beaten egg.

Generously grease outside of 5-inch metal or oven-proof glass bowl. Place in center of basket to keep sides of basket from falling in during baking. Or form 5-inch aluminum foil ball, grease outside generously and place inside basket.

To form handle, braid together 3 dough strips. Grease top of inverted 5-inch metal or oven-proof glass bowl. Place on second baking sheet. Arrange braided strip over top of bowl. Brush with egg mixture. Place remaining bread stick on baking sheet for "snack."

Place baking sheet with basket base on lower oven rack. Place baking sheet with handle on 350° until deep golden brown. Cover top of braided handle with sheet of aluminum foil to prevent overbrowning, if necessary.

Allow basket and handle to cool on baking sheet 5 minutes. Remove to cooling rack. Cool completely. Gently remove handle from inverted bowl. Place two toothpicks into both ends of handle. Gently press onto top edge of basket.

Chocolate dipper helps fill baskets

By Janice Denham
Food editor

Let's face it. The Easter bunny has a lot of work to do this week and he doesn't even know his elves.

Then, again, he might be more than a meddling acquaintance of Elsie Kruger. Kruger does more than look at Easter baskets. She fills them with homemade chocolates and other candy concoctions.

"I sold candy from our home for about four years. Now I just do it for friends and family," she says. "Easter was always our biggest time, then Christmas."

She has been teaching how to fill those Easter baskets with style for the free Thomas Dunn Memorial Adult Education Program in south St. Louis since 1983.

"The things we do are very easy. We usually have a class where we have no kitchen facilities, so they have to be easy. We melt chocolate in a crockpot. We make a lot of fillings and dip them into the chocolate."

"Plastic molds and milk chocolate discs are widely available in large supermarkets now, making the enjoyable task readily available for any novice who wants to apply for the hopping-new annual labor of chocolate wizardry.

You start by melting the (white or dark) milk chocolate at a very low temperature," Kruger says. "It will take five pounds about one hour on low in a crockpot. It can be melted in a microwave, but use only a dry or low power. You have to watch it because the chocolate doesn't look melted. It will take about three minutes per pound on low. Then you stir it and add a little more time as it is needed."

This "chocolate" is actually summer coating, a confectionery coating made from sugar, milk solids, flavorings, food colors, fats and oils, which also contains cocoa powder. Clear plastic molds come in a variety of forms. For Easter there are rabbits, lambs, eggs and chicks.

They come in varying sizes and consequently use a different amount of chocolate.

They must stay dry, so they only should be wiped with a clean towel instead of being thoroughly washed between batches. Wash only in warm water, then completely dry in the air. Just pour the melted chocolate into the mold without any greasing or any other preparation.

"The chocolate will set up at room temperature," advises Kruger. "A cool back porch makes the project go faster. It will take 20 minutes to set up a small mold, like one with suckers. Refrigerating will make it go a little faster. If it is set up right, it will just pop out when turned upside-down. If it is cloudy, it probably hasn't set."

One pound of chocolate coating will take 1/4 cup peanut butter for flavor. However, Kruger prefers a filling made by creaming 1 cup (2 sticks) margarine and 1 cup peanut butter, then mixing in 1 1/2 pounds confectioner's sugar and 1 to 3 teaspoons vanilla. Rolled in balls, they can be laid in molds lined with chocolate and then covered with more chocolate, or simply dipped into the melted coating.

White coating becomes as colorful as the rainbow when tinted with pastel colors. Food coloring usually found in the kitchen should not be used because they are liquid. She recommends putting the coloring on the tip of a toothpick to add color as desired.

That makes a beautiful Easter nest when 1 pound white chocolate coating is tinted green and mixed with one (7-ounce) package shredded coconut. Form these into eight nests each about 3 inches in diameter. Hollow out the bowl of a spoon. Small jellybeans and other treats can fill each nest.

Steak hoagies

- 1 lb. lean deli beef slices
- 1 onion, chopped
- 1 tsp. oil
- 1 tomato, chopped
- 8 oz. mozzarella or shredded mozzarella cheese
- 1 cup shredded lettuce
- 6 hot dog or hoagie rolls

State news

Steps taken to update worker compensation

Gov. James R. Thompson has released a study of the state's workers' compensation system as a step toward further reform of the system. Labor and business leaders will begin negotiating sessions April 19.

Among the findings of the study, performed by John Lewis, was that the costs paid by Illinois employers for workers' compensation are about average for the nation but higher than those paid in neighboring states. Only the construction industry had costs significantly higher than most other states.

Among the failings of the system cited were the limited role allowed the Illinois Industrial Commission and its lack of data collected and analyzed. The lack of information means the state does not know with precision how much workers' compensation costs, who pays, how effective it is in providing benefits and rehabilitating injured workers, and how changes would affect workers and costs, the study concluded.

Tourism industry on rise in Illinois

Employment in the tourism industry and tourism-related spending is up sharply in Illinois as the state enters the fifth full year of its tourism advertising campaign, according to Jay R. Hedges, director of the Illinois Department of Commerce and Community Affairs.

When the state began its effort to boost tourism in 1985, 152,000 Illinoisans were working in the industry and tourism advertising were $8.7 billion.

In 1989, 207,700 Illinois residents are expected to have tourism jobs, and annual travel expenditures are predicted to be $12.8 billion. The 1989 Illinois tourism campaign will focus on antiquing and the rural experience, historic Illinois and Abraham Lincoln, and festivals and unique cuisine from the heartland.

Southern Illinois focus on quality of life

Improving the quality of life in Southern Illinois and for its neighbors in Arkansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, Missouri and Tennessee will be the focus for a public hearing May 25 by the Lower Mississippi Delta Development Commission.

According to Jay R. Hedges, director of the Illinois Department of Commerce and Community Affairs, population growth in Southern Illinois has lagged behind the rest of the state and a higher percentage of the region's residents is older.

Economic dependency tends to be based on the river, coal and agricultural — making it vulnerable, Hedges said. The percentage of families living in poverty is larger, ranging from 11.2 percent to 22.4 percent, compared to the national average of 9.6 percent.

Community college to get state funds

Lewis and Clark Community College in Godfrey will be the site of the largest of 28 statewide construction and renovation projects, worth more than $6.79 million, approved by the Capital Development Board.

The college will receive $1.73 million for installation of elevators and interior and exterior wheelchair ramps and modification of restroom facilities on campus to meet state handicapped accessibility codes.

Illinois-French coal research pact signed

Illinois has taken the first step in opening opportunities to market Illinois coal in France, with the signing in Paris this month of an "intention of agreement" for coal research by Ed. Gov. George H. Ryan and French coal and gas industry officials.

According to the agreement, Illinois and France are considering setting up an industrial corporation with the purpose of studying power generation using low-grade fuels, such as high sulfur or high ash content coals. Illinois has 181 billion tons of recoverable coal reserve, the second largest total in the nation.

Vehicle registration is to be speeded up

A new Illinois Department of Revenue tax form, RUT-25, is intended to speed up by two or three weeks the registration and titling of vehicles purchased from out-of-state dealers, lending institutions or leasing agencies.

The new tax form, being distributed to state driver license facilities, banks and currency exchanges, will eliminate the transfer of paperwork between the Department of Revenue and the Secretary of State's office.

The Illinois Use Tax applies to all individuals or organizations acquiring new or used motor vehicles from out-of-state dealers, lending institutions or leasing agencies and to new residents who have moved to Illinois and need an Illinois title and license plates for their vehicles.

Plans may reduce addicts' crime rate

The state plans to expand its treatment of people arrested for drug-related crimes, in an attempt to decrease the crimes committed by addicts.

It is estimated drug users were responsible for more than a million crimes in Illinois last year, ranging from dealing drugs to robbery and murder.

The plan calls for increased jail screenings and placement of addicted offenders and a pilot program of diversion to treatment. It has been found that an addict's crime rate is reduced sixfold when his or her addiction is treated.

Tips for redirecting that lost dog or cat

The Madison County Humane Society has advice on what to do if you find a stray cat or dog in Madison County and says that thousands of lost pets are never reunited with their owners.

Among the tips:

- Be certain that the animal is a homeless stray. If it is thin and shabby and has no collar, it probably has no home. Even if it does have an owner, it should not be running loose. If it has a tag, call the owners and tell them you have found their pet. If it has a rabies tag, contact Madison County Animal Control at 692-1701.

- Place a found ad in the local papers. Many papers offer free found ads as a public service.

- If you are unable to care for the abandoned pet, bring it to the appropriate animal shelter. The local humane societies are: Madison County Humane Society, Alton Area Animal Aid, Animal Protective Association of Granite City, Humane Society of Collinsville, or Highland Animal Shelter. For further information on the many homeless animals available for adoption, or to volunteer your time to help the animals, call the Madison County Humane Society at 656-4405.

Energetic 5-year-old boy needs foster parents' love

GRANITE CITY — The Illinois Department of Children and Family Services (DCFS) is seeking help from area families who are willing to provide care to foster children of all ages. These are youngsters whose biological parents, for many reasons, are unable to care for them.

Some children may have been abandoned, others neglected or abused. Until their problems are resolved, they need foster care. They need foster parents who will give them the advantage of a warm and secure home environment.

One such child is Kenny, 5, a 40-pound bundle of energy. This brown-eyed, black-haired, 5-year-old loves watching cartoons on television. Playing on the playground and coloring pictures are also favorite pastimes. As a typical for many children his age, he is quite playful and sometimes mischievous.

For one so young, Kenny has experienced things that some adults will never experience. He has been neglected and not given much love by his natural parents. Kenny's mother is an alcoholic and drug abuser. Combined with her ill health, these problems prevent her from being able to care for Kenny and his siblings.

Kenny also has some medical problems. He suffers, chronically, from moderate asthma. He has some dietary restrictions as well.

If you are interested in giving a home to Kenny, or in foster care in general, call Jeanette Rettle, resource development specialist, at 676-8955 or toll-free 1-800-624-KIDS.

Volunteer judges for the event were Hellrich, Debbie Wilkerson, Mike Gutierrez, Betty Stone, Donna Dioneda, Dave Miskelly, Pat Foote, Henry Hellrich and Jan Melson. # At Tree Top, 100% Pure Means 100% Safe.

Our business is children. And that's why Tree Top instituted strict safety procedures years ago to make sure our products are Alar free.

Right from the start, we require growers to certify their fruit is not treated with Alar. Then we sample and test the fruit before it's processed. Over 8,000 of these tests have been conducted in the last year alone.

Fact is, we've rejected tons of apples because they have not measured up to Tree Top's no-Alar standard.

As a final safety check, the finished product is continuously sampled and tested for Alar throughout the day, every day.

As a result, the scientifically accredited test method, PAM II, proves Tree Top juices and apple-sauce contain no Alar.

There's been a lot said about Alar lately. But no matter what you've heard, they weren't talking about Tree Top.

If you have any questions, please write to us at P.O. Box 698, Selah, WA 98942.

along with graduated senior Sheila Marshall on the winning 800 relay team.

"We are loaded with sprinters," Briggs said. "The girls are sprinters and 10 of them are top-flight. Most schools are lucky to put one or two girls this good on the track. I have eight or ten."

It sounds too good to be true, but the Trojanettes' great performances last year has led to a very competitive and successful environment. There is so much talent that everyone has to work very hard just to keep up.

"There are some talented girls in school that aren't out for the team," Briggs said. "But the girls that come out understand that they are going to have to work. The ones that don't want to work don't come out for the team."

How much talent is there on the team?

In addition to the three members of last year's state relay state championship team, the Trojanettes return three of the four members from last year's second place 400 meter relay team — Browley, Davenport and LaGloria Marshall. Even though they placed second in the 400 relay, the Trojanettes broke the previous state record.

That was also the only time all year Madison did not place first in the 400.

Sheila Marshall, the fourth member of both teams and LaGloria Marshall's older sister, is now a student at Illinois State University.

The great work ethic of the team and the fact that state qualifying standards have been lowered since last year means the sky is the limit for this team.

Not only does the team have great talent, but it also has the depth to overcome any injuries or adversity that may come along. The team is rounded out by underclassmen who will take long jump with a meet record jump of 22 feet, 7 inches. He broke his own record jump set last year at 22-2 1/2. He also placed second in the 60-yard dash with a time of 6.5 seconds.

While the team will probably struggle, Leonard is almost certain to excel. Leonard is coming off a fine season on the basketball court where he was Madison's leading scorer.

He is a good basketball player, but he is a great long jumper. Leonard won the Class A long jump title a year ago with a record-setting jump of 23 1/2 feet.

Leonard will be a co-captain of the team along with senior Scott Kestenoki. The team will have three other seniors — Eric Richardson, Kirk Gregory and Robert Pritchard.

One of the biggest stories of this team is about the athletes who aren't on it. Seven students who would have run track won't be around for various reasons. Four of them have moved out of the districts, two have taken jobs and one is academically ineligible.

The biggest loss is senior Ian Smith, who has transferred to Vashon High School in St. Louis. The state's 400-meter champion the past two years, Smith moved in the middle of the school year.

Stepie is still hopeful he can get a few more athletes to come out for the team.

"We have shared with the baseball team before, hopefully we can get some guys in the baseball team to come out for track this year," Stepie said.

Park softball leagues have some openings

The Granite City Park District has announced it has openings in its men's and women's softball leagues.

The season, scheduled to begin April 24, is slated for 12 games plus playoffs for the top four finishers. The entry fee is $150 per team with an additional $17.50 per player for participants residing outside the district. Game balls are the responsibility of the home team.

For further information, contact Wake Barber at the Wilson Park Office, 877-3059.

Park girls softball registration taken

The Granite City Park District is accepting team registrations for its girls softball program.

Entry fee for the 12-game season is $125 per team, with an additional $10 assessed to non-residents. The entry fee covers a 12-game schedule and game balls. Divisions and age groups are as follows: Atom, 8-10 years old; Rantam, 11-12 years old; and Midget, 13-14 years old.

For more information, call Wake Barber at the Wilson Park Office, 877-3059.

"The way their proposal comes across with the contract control and the travel limitations, we wouldn't have much control over the program and I don't like that," Lewis said.

Lewis said he will make a decision regarding his future once the board comes back with some more concrete plans.

and overtime ended. Then Jackson pulled off his heroics in the third overtime.

"This is the greatest game I've ever been in," said Lewis. "Our kids never let down. And neither did the kids from Peoria. It's a shame either has to be a loser, but I sure am glad it's not us."

It was a bitter pill for Lion coach Charles Buescher to swallow as he saw his team's undefeated season end one game short of the promised land. "It was great ballgame," Buescher said. "They just made the shot and we didn't. I am very proud of these kids."

NOTES: Lincoln, which started the weekend ranked fourth in the state, defeated the top three teams in ascending order to claim the title. Lincoln clipped third-ranked Aurora East 72-70 in Friday's quarterfinals, clipped No. 2 Chicago King 60-57 in the semifinals, then edged top-ranked Peoria Central in Friday's game. Sharif Ford hit an off-balance 15-footer as time expired after Martin had stolen an inbounds pass at the far end of the court. King (30-2) defeated Rock Island 76-58 to claim the third-place trophy. King All-American guard Jamie Brandon had a game-high 18 points for the Jaguars. Martin, who along with McKinney will be back next year, was a first-team all-tournament selection.

When picking time span for loan, look ahead

By Peter Bohr

You have to give us credit — American consumers are a remarkably adaptable lot. So what if the price tag on a new car these days equals the one on a house just a few years ago? We're still able to buy new cars.

We've found a clever way to cope with the dramatic price increases. We simply take out longer loans. Abracadabra! The price goes up, but the monthly payments stay about the same.

As I said, give us credit — lots and lots of credit.

Two-year and three-year car loans used to be the norm. Today, five- and even six-year loans are common. In fact, two-thirds of the loans made by General Motors Acceptance Corp. and Ford Motor Credit are for 60 months or more.

But now everyone, from lenders to individual car buyers, is wondering if extended-length loans are so clever after all. Car buyers who signed on the dotted line for these long-term loans are beginning to realize that it takes a lot longer than before to reach a positive equity position in their cars.

As soon as a shiny new car leaves the dealer's lot, it plunges in value like Christmas ornaments on Dec. 26. The typical car depreciates by 25 to 35 percent in its first two or three years on the road. Because of that precipitous decline, a car will be worth less for a while than the loan amount against it. Thus, the owner is "upside down," as they say in the business.

When you take a shorter-length loan, after just a year or so of making payments, your car's value will be worth more than you owe on it. With a long-term loan, however, you could be upside down for two, three or four years. And therein lies the rub. If during that time you tire of the beast and you want to trade it in on another car, you will be in the frustrating situation of owing more on your car than it is worth.

Some car owners have a simple solution to the dilemma. They stiff the lender. That's one reason why General Motors repossessed some 143,000 cars and trucks last year or about three times more than it repossessed five years ago. Ford says its earnings from financial services have dropped $166 million, partly because of credit losses.

Nobody wins from that solution, least of all the car owner. If your car is repossessed, you are still responsible for the principal on the loan. Even worse, the next time you try to get credit on anything, your credit record will be about as enticing as the Edsel was in its last days. But even if you plan to keep the car until the loan is paid off, there's still a compelling reason not to sign up for a long-term loan. On a $12,000 loan (which isn't much these days) at 12 percent interest, a five-year loan will cost you nearly $1,600 in extra interest as compared to a three-year loan. That is enough to pay your insurance bill for a year or fill your gas tank a hundred times over. And you can deduct almost none of that interest expense from your taxes anymore.

You could take a shorter-term loan. You could make a larger down payment. And of course, if you pay cash for the car, you will avoid interest charges altogether and you will have a positive equity position in the car from the very beginning.

If you can't squeeze much out of your monthly budget for loan payments, you could buy a less expensive car.

If you do decide to buy a fancy car using a long-term loan, you choose one that has exceptionally good resale value.

Look, signal before changing lanes

Changing lanes quickly or turning without signaling can cause an accident. If you are in the left or center lane and need to turn right, look for traffic behind you and on your right.

Signal and move into the right-hand lane well before the intersection. Signal for the turn at least 100 feet (about six car-lengths) before turning in a business or residential area. Yield the right-of-way to pedestrians and vehicles in the intersection.

Wine Not Trying To Be The Biggest Just The BEST!

High tech and the auto: best yet coming in future

The way tomorrow's car will look and act with its "high tech" systems is outlined below by the Motor Vehicle Manufacturers Association.

The outside of the car or truck will be exciting, the association promises. The battle against corrosion will be over, with plastics, aluminum and new steels all good for the life of the car. Currently, the shell of most vehicles is still mostly steel, but in another decade it may be 50 percent plastic.

From yesterday's boxy shape that today's designers and engineers have turned into the aerodynamic jellybean mold, a sleek, rear-drop-shaped line will have evolved. With fuel injection already replacing the bulky carburetor, hood lines will be low-slung and taut. Overall, the car will be more aggressive-looking.

Inside, there will be a dazzling array of electronic systems with an emphasis on safety. Many will be activated by the driver's voice, said Fred Bowditch, the association's vice president of technical affairs.

Some examples of what the future holds:

• Radar braking systems. They will automatically warn if the driver is getting too close to another vehicle. Speed, as well as weather and road conditions, will be factors. In fact, there's a similar system on at least one van being built today. It uses radar technology to detect objects up to 15 feet from the rear of the van.

• Road condition monitors. Is there ice on that bridge ahead? The driver will get an instant report.

• "Sleepy-driver alert systems. They may be hooked up to the steering wheel or the driver. Start to doze off — and the alarm rings.

• Engine/component status monitors. These will give a continuous account of what is happening in the engine, alerting the driver to any potential malfunctions.

Even some worries of today will ease in the future, Bowditch said. Want to find out where your teen-age son or daughter has taken the car? There will be a satellite navigation system on the instrument panel that will enable a parent to track the teen-age driver's movements.
